

How many drinks is .08?

In a controlled environment at the police station last week with the Townsman and police observing, three volunteers agreed to drink until they reached the new legal intoxication level.

By Don Staruk

In May, the state lowered the amount of blood alcohol it takes for a motorist to be presumed operating under the influence in Massachusetts from .10 to .08, but that level still may be too high.

That's what at least one volunteer observed in a Townsman-sponsored test last week in which three subjects consumed a number of alcoholic beverages to see how many drinks it takes to reach .08.

Only one of the three subjects exceeded .08 after two hours of steady drinking. She had consumed a bottle of white wine, the equivalent to five six-ounce glasses at a bar or restaurant.

Of the other two, both men, one drank five cans of beer and the other consumed four scotch-and-sodas, and both reached only a blood alcohol reading of .03.

The woman said she was too drunk to drive before she reached the legal limit, but the men both said they would have been OK to drive home. They didn't.

Top student outlines his study habits

WARNING The following article is likely to cause frustration in Andover students. It may limit their ability to listen to music, munch on artificially-flavored snacks, or lounge on their couches while studying.

By Neil Fater

Every year, before the beginning of school, parents bombard their children with the same advice, Study at a desk. Turn off the radio. Eliminate other distractions.

Because public school opens next Thursday, Sept. 8, the Townsman asked Akilesh Palanisamy, a successful 1994 Andover High School graduate, to describe his study habits and possibly offer some advice to students returning to the classroom.

Mr. Palanisamy, of Topping Road, will

Early plans for Labor Day

Monday, Sept. 5, is Labor Day. The Townsman offices will be closed. The paper has early news and advertising deadlines for the Sept. 8 issue: tomorrow,

She lists long-distance running and Polish history among her interests. But her current position may be for the short haul only.

Denise Benner Littlefield was named interim assistant superintendent of schools Tuesday night for the 1994-1995 school year. The position is a rare opportunity for an educator to temporarily experience upper-level school management, said Dick Neal, interim superintendent.

Pike's new head to chart a new course

By Neil Fater

John Waters' theme for his first year as head of Pike School is entitled "A year of learning together." His family seems to have taken a liking to it.

When school begins Sept. 12, Mr. Waters will learn more about school operations, his wife, Liza, a Pike math teacher, will learn her students' names, and 10-year-old Willie and 8-year-old Jamie will precede 4-year-old Jessica in learning their assignments.

"The family will get to see plenty of each other," said Mr. Waters. "It's been a little hard to move (from West Hartford), but they get two weeks of summer extra here. I think they're going back on Wednesday to heckle their friends."

After 20 years in different positions at Kingswood-Oxford in West Hartford, Mr. Waters officially replaced David Frothingham as Pike School head on July 1. He will not teach classes this year so he can focus on meeting teachers and students.

He said he plans to cover lower school recess, participate in the middle school ski program and coach sports in the upper school.

"I think some people in this transition read Pike School is going to be a different place," but there is no large-scale agenda planned, said Mr. Waters. However, there will be plenty of conversations regarding school improvement.

"It's been a busy summer. We did two weeks of administration meetings where I locked the administration in a room with me," he said. "If we help each other we can learn more. I think I have the advantage of asking, 'Why?'"

And he refuses to accept the answer, "Because it's always been done that way."

"I guess the one thing we're going to push hardest at is the mission statement. It hasn't changed in quite a while. I think it's possible the school might define itself a little differently a year from now than it has in the past. The exciting and terrifying part of that is I can't tell you what it's going to be," said Mr. Waters.

"We need to keep talking with each other. It doesn't mean we always agree," he said. "For me a big part of it is a willingness to (explore) new ideas. We ask kids to do this all the time."

Mr. Waters explored some ideas this summer at a workshop of 59 first-year, independent-school heads that his wife refers to as "headmasters' camp." He also met with Mr. Frothingham and Pike School parents.

Although he will probably teach history next year, that subject is not Mr. Waters' only interest. In his office he has Buffalo Bills memorabilia (his father attended every home game for years) and a number of soccer balls from teams he coached. He also played soccer in college and in a semi-pro league.

As with most school heads, Mr. Waters' goal is to help shape well-rounded students but he said, "I don't think that means the child has to be equally proficient in each area."

Rather, students just need to be exposed to a plethora of pursuits.

"If someone happens to be a great reader and writer and that's all they're exposed to, then maybe they're not being stretched as much as they could be," he said. "I was exposed to art at this age and hated it and didn't do very well."

But by the end of his schooling, Mr. Waters said he had enough credits to contemplate majoring in art. Today, art work from his children adorns his office walls - although it wasn't easy to get the children to agree to this. After all, their new friends might see the art in his office.

But with a little communication, the family members were able to agree on what will appear on Mr. Waters' walls.

Unfortunately, as Mr. Waters said, while people need always to talk, that doesn't mean they will always agree. "Particularly the middle child has been after me about changing the dress code."

Voting absentee in Sept. 20 State Primary

An Andover resident may vote absentee if he or she is a registered voter and will be unable to vote at the polls due to absence from the town during the time polls are open. Other allowed reasons for casting absentee ballots are physical disability or religious beliefs.

The person must apply in writing for an absentee ballot from the office of the town clerk at town offices on Bartlet Street no later than noon, Monday, Sept. 19, to vote in the State Primary Sept. 20. The person may use an official absentee ballot application form obtained at the clerk's office, or use any written form of communication that includes: name, address as listed on the voter list, address of where the ballot should be mailed, and the signature of the registered voter. Applicants must sign their own request personally.

By law, any absentee ballot that is requested to be sent by mail must be returned by mail with a postmark before the polls close on election day. Absentee ballots cannot be hand-carried to the town clerk's office or the polls on election day. The clerk's office cautions that absentee ballot applicants that requests should be made early enough for ballots to be sent and returned by the postal system. Ballots cannot be counted if they are not returned as prescribed by law.

A person may also request to vote by absentee ballot in person in the town clerk's office. The final date to vote absentee in person in the clerk's office is noon, Monday, Sept. 19. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Group endorses John O'Brien

State Senator John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, has received the endorsement of the state's firefighters in his bid for re-election to the Massachusetts Senate representing Andover, Dracut, Lawrence and Tewksbury.

The Professional Fire Fighters of Massachusetts unanimously endorsed Senator O'Brien based on his voting record and leadership abilities that have "served to improve not only the working conditions of firefighters, but also the welfare of their spouses, and children."

Fire Department putting together history book

The Andover Fire Department is beginning to compile a commemorative history book of its department. The special publication will include the department's history with accounts of major fires, equipment and stations, both past and present, and photographs of active and retired members. Most of all, this book will portray what it means to be a member of the Andover Fire Department and the pride its members share in their common goals to serve their neighbors and community, said firefighters.

The hardbound, leatherette edition will be printed on high-quality glossy paper with approximately 60 pages of information and photos. The anticipated delivery date is May 1995.

If any active or retired department members have photographs, artifacts or ideas that would benefit this project, contact Chief Harold Hayes. Any photos or other items will be returned undamaged upon completion of the book.

The department encourages retirees to stop by the Public Safety Center to help the committee identify unknown persons in photos. Anyone who would like to participate on the committee should contact a present member.

Here's an opportunity to recycle oil

The Andover Health Department reports "brisk business" at the waste oil collection. The collection, which is held jointly with the town of North Andover, is located at the DPW garage on Osgood Street in North Andover.

It takes place on the first and third Saturday of every month, including this Saturday, Sept. 3, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Everett Penney, Andover Health director, said, "The twice-a-month collection continues to be a popular alternative for do-it-yourself oil changers."

State law requires oil retailers to take back used oil but, very few actually do, said Mr. Penney.

Contact the Andover Health Department at 470-3800, Ext. 255, with questions about the collection.

Pooper-scooper enforced this weekend

By Don Staruk

Dog owners beware. If you are not doing it already, it's time to start cleaning up after your pets.

The police department this weekend will start enforcing the town's pooper-scooper bylaw, according to Chief James Johnson.

"Verbally this week, and starting on the 12th they're going to issue tickets," Chief Johnson said yesterday, Wednesday.

The bylaw, which requires dog owners to clean up after their pets when the animals are not on the owner's property, was approved at April Town Meeting and approved by the attorney general in July.

After consulting with court officials, the police department has developed a policy for officers to follow "when it is necessary to enforce Article 12, Section 11C" of the town bylaws.

The policy reads as follows:

"A. At no time shall any enforcement person retain any canine waste for evidence;

B. If an officer does not witness the violation, then the officer must ascertain the name of a witness before issuing a non-criminal citation, as the witness will be needed for court;

C. If the violation is witnessed by an enforcement officer, the non-criminal citation may be issued to the person in control of the canine. The enforcement officer should be able to testify in court, as an eye witness, about the waste;

D. Disposal of canine waste may be accomplished by the owner taking the canine waste to a wooded area, as stated in letter from the director of the Board of Health, or to a sanitary sewer toilet. Disposal will not be the responsibility of the police department."

Violations of the bylaw, including the owner not having a means of removal on his or her person, are subject to a $25 fine for the first offense, and a $50 fine for second and subsequent offenses.

But not every traffic violation ends up with a ticket or in court, and it is likely the same will be true for violations of this bylaw, according to Lt. Froburg.

Police are hopeful ticketing and court will not be necessary, and that pet owners will use common sense and pick up after their pets when the animals foul a neighbor's lawn, or any public or private street, walk, lawn or trail area where people, especially children, will be walking or playing, according to Lt. Phillip Froburg.

But now the guidelines are in place should enforcement be necessary.

"Should an officer decide it necessary to issue a ticket, we want them to know the procedures to follow," the lieutenant said.

VNA, here for 99 years

By Kevin Dolan

Get ready for a fireworks display, because VNA HomeCare is preparing to celebrate its centennial. For 99 years, VNA HomeCare has been providing health care to the local community. As it prepares to round the corner of the century mark, it has expanded its base by reaching out to an even wider audience.

VNA (short for Visiting Nurses Association) HomeCare is an organization that serves more people in the Merrimack Valley and Southern New Hampshire than any other agency of its kind in the region, according to Phebe Goldman, executive director of Home Health Foundation. It reaches Bay State communities from Salisbury to Methuen to Wakefield. In the Granite State, its coverage includes towns from South Hampton to Derry. Likewise, it is one of the larger employers among small businesses in the Merrimack Valley, with more than 450 employees, according to Ms. Goldman.

VNAs, which have been around for close to 120 years, were originally created to provide care to patients in the community. VNA HomeCare was established in 1895 and first addressed the health needs of the very young. It soon recognized the need to serve all age groups, especially the elderly.

"VNA HomeCare in Andover evolved out of Lawrence General Hospital," said Ms. Goldman. "Back in 1895, it started as a little department of the hospital, where it remained for many, many years. In 1979, the hospital spun the organization off as a separate and completely independent entity. Once it was spun off, it just grew by leaps and bounds."

With the enactment of Medicare and Medicaid in the 1960s, VNA HomeCare expanded its focus and began offering more comprehensive and skilled services, such as physical, occupational and speech therapy, medical social work, certified home health aides and skilled nursing services. As the needs of the community continued to change, VNA HomeCare began providing more sophisticated and specialized services, such as rehabilitation nursing, psychiatric nursing and oncology nursing.

In 1984, VNA HomeCare reorganized and established affiliates to further enhance its services. Merrimack Valley Hospice Inc. was established to meet the needs of terminally ill patients and their families by offering an extensive array of services, including nursing care and bereavement support. Services for VNA HomeCare and Merrimack Valley Hospice Inc. are covered by most insurance companies. Recognizing that some patients may want care beyond what their medical insurance would cover, though, the agency developed HomeCare Inc., a private-pay service providing personal care services.

How to save money on your next furniture purchase

♦ New Store Offers Area Residents a Different Concept.

*Special to
The Andover Townsman*

LAWRENCE- Merrimack Valley residents now have an alternative to conventional furniture purchases with the opening of "The Weekend Furniture Store."

Located in Lawrence at 4 Union Street in the former Ippolito's Furniture Store, the store is, as the name implies, only open weekends (Friday, Saturday, and Sunday). "By only opening three days a week we can really keep the prices low and that's what most value-conscious consumers are looking for," cites Greg Russell, President, & former General Manager of Ippolito's. "We operate with a very low overhead, choosing to pass on the savings to our customers." This unique format allows Mr. Russell to not only work the sales floor but also to frequently deliver furniture purchases during the week.

This floral cotton Sofa with innerspring seat cushions is $999 to $1199 in area Dept. Stores and $599 at The Weekend Furniture Store.

Purchases from manufacturers are made mostly in complete truckloads, allowing The Weekend Furniture Store a five percent discount, which in turn is given to customers who choose to pay by cash or check. Credit cards are accepted, but without the extra five percent.

Special custom orders are delivered about 95 percent of the time in 30 days or less. People are amazed at the speed with which their orders are completed after having dealt with some of the national chain stores.

"Since opening January 1st, business has steadily increased," said Linda Serino, a "Weekend Sales Specialist." The word is spreading about the tremendous values offered here.

On a recent visit we found a seven piece farmhouse dinette set for $399, cherry end tables from

$99, a beautiful eight piece cherry dining room from Bassett for $1799 and a seven piece living room package for $699. "Don't forget the 5% cash discount," said Mr. Russell. "It really adds up!"

Recently the store has expanded from strictly living rooms, tables and mattresses to include bedrooms and dining rooms. A new leather program will be available this weekend.

But please, don't come during the week ... we work weekends, because you don't!

"Customers were asking to see what's new in our warehouse, so we opened up the space, calling the expanded area 'The Back Room.' This tripled the space from 6,000 to nearly 18,000 feet. When you're starting out, you can really be responsive to your customer's requests," Greg Russell said. "Our niche is definitely low prices, but our service is second to none."

Organization tripled

In 1988, Ms. Goldman was named executive director of the Home Health Foundation, the parent company of VNA HomeCare and its affiliates, Merrimack Valley Hospice Inc. and HomeCare Inc. Headquartered at 1 Union St. in Andover, each agency provides various levels of home health care.

During her tenure, she has helped the Home Health Foundation enjoy tremendous growth. The organization has tripled in size under her guidance. In the last three years, the foundation has gone from making 176,481 visits in 1991 to 271,508 visits in 1993, a 53.9 percent increase. Furthermore, it has added such services as home IV therapy program, a rehabilitation nursing program, a maternal child-health program, which includes a Precious Beginnings program for mothers who have been discharged from the hospital within 24 hours of delivery, and an HIV/AIDS program — all under Ms. Goldman's direction.

"Phebe has been a very significant figure with the VNA and has a real grasp of patient-care needs," said Kathleen Bliss, vice president of nursing at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen. "She is innovative as well, such as thinking about future needs of patients. Phebe is very well respected, and she has helped us a lot here at Holy Family."

"She has provided tremendous vision and stability to the VNA," added Calvin Johnson, vice president of professional services at Lawrence General Hospital.

Why did Ms. Goldman opt to pursue a career in home-health care?

"It was very clear to me that the place people wanted to be cared for was at home," said Ms. Goldman. "They got better faster. They were happier. They were more motivated to participate in their own plan of care. It was clear that that was where I wanted to be working with these people."

From a cost-cutting perspective, in this era of health-care reform, VNAs are providing in the home many of the same benefits one could get in the hospital. In the long run, it becomes a lot less expensive for hospitals, for the health-care system and, ultimately, for the taxpayers. According to Ms. Goldman, there are greater numbers of people who are much sicker and more frail living at home than ever before. In the past, they were cared for in the hospital. But as hospitals are trying to reduce their patient's length of stay, the Home Health Foundation has become a very important piece of helping those people accomplish that.

One of the problems that exists, however, is that as the growth in home-health continues, a burden is placed on physicians to manage that patient's care at home rather than in the hospital, resulting in more paperwork for physicians. And Ms. Goldman recognizes that concern.

"We're very conscious of working with both the physicians, helping them manage a patient at home, and the federal government, asking that physicians be reimbursed for time they spend in case management. And that's very important. We need the physicians in partnership with us and they need us."

Andover roots

Ms. Goldman grew up in Andover on the Phillips Academy campus, living "in Coy House, Stimson House, Taylor Hall and all those places," while her father, Josh Miner, served as the academy's director of admissions, a post he held for 35 years. She attended Central Elementary and Pike School before moving on to Northfield-Mount Hermon boarding school in Northfield. Her daughter, Rebecca, 17, is entering her senior year at Northfield.

Ms. Goldman first experienced community health nursing while working toward her degree in nursing at Columbia University in New York City. As part of the school's nursing curriculum, she was required to do some public health nursing. Ms. Goldman did her public health nursing in the South Bronx, where she took buses and subways around the city to visit patients.

"I was drawn to the field of community health nursing because of the fact that it allows for one to function fairly independently in the community," Ms. Goldman said. "It's a great feeling when you help a patient become more independent in their environment - when you make their life easier for them in some way following an illness or following a diagnosis of a new disease."

Following graduation, she worked in New York for a while as a nurse at Presbyterian Hospital before moving to Denver, Colo., to take a job as a public health nurse with a Visiting Nurse Association. This was the first time she was involved in the VNA. While in Denver, where she worked for 15 years in a variety of capacities, she met her husband-to-be, got married and had a daughter. In 1986, however, Ms. Goldman's husband died unexpectedly. With a void created in her life, she decided she wanted to be close to her family again.

"I have a brother who lives in Boxford, another brother in New Hampshire. My parents (Josh and Phebe Miner) are here. I felt this would be an important piece that I could bring to my daughter."

So she started looking for work in New England. One day, a search firm representing a Visiting Nurse Association looking for a potential executive director called her. Much to her surprise, the VNA in question was in Andover. She applied for the job and was hired.

"It's been a very interesting and exciting thing to come back to one's hometown and reconnect with people who were a part of my life as a child and to see that the town is still much the same as it was when I left," noted Ms. Goldman.

Now, as a registered nurse and 23-year veteran of the home-health industry, Ms. Goldman is in a position to continue to have an impact on the field that she has devoted herself to. Her most recent endeavor has been to seek Joint Commission Accreditation, a private accrediting agency recognized for its long-standing expertise in accrediting hospitals. While Joint Commission Accreditation is required for hospitals, it is not required for VNAs, although many are starting to move in that direction. She believes this is an opportunity "to show our patients that we are willing to go through a rigorous process of examination in order to prove that we can do the job in a very qualified fashion, and to do the best job possible" for them.

"In the business that we are in, we are guests in people's homes. We are there at their request and with their permission. So the people we send out need to be highly qualified, very competent and very caring while meeting certain standards to assure our patients that we will effectively help and care for them."

J. B. Doherty Associates recently acknowledged the firm's top residential sales producers for the first and second quarters of 1994.

Kirstin "Kirk" Clarke, who has been associated with the firm since 1986, was the top producing agent in the first quarter. The lifelong resident of Andover has twice been recognized as the firm's annual producer.

Anne Sinkinson was recognized as the firm's second quarter top producer. She had prior experience in residential real estate sales and rejoined J. B. Doherty Associates in 1993. She has been a resident of Andover for more than 14 years and has attended specialized training courses for relocation and residential sales skills.

J.B. Doherty Associates is located at 12 Bartlet St.

Systems division account for North America. Inchcape Testing Services is an independent product safety testing and certification organization.

The Quality Systems division, whose Western Hemisphere headquarters are located in Andover, includes ETL Testing Laboratories, Inc., Dash, Straus & Goodhue, Warnock Hersey, Inc., Warnock Hersey Professional Services, Ltd. (Canada), Labtest (America), Inc., TestMark Laboratories, ETL Albury (England) and SEMKO AB (Sweden).

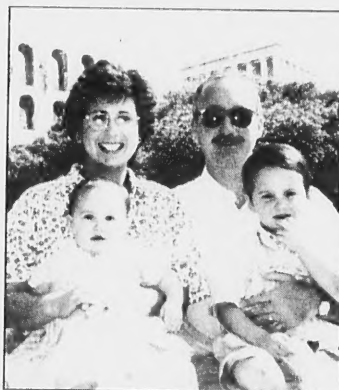

Inchcape Testing Services, part of London-based Inchcape plc, the international services and marketing group, plans to spend more than $500,000 with Doerr as its strategic marketing agency.

"Our extensive search allowed us to review several agencies in Boston and New York and, after careful study, Doerr won hands down," said Alan B. Dittrich, director of marketing.

"We are honored and looking forward to dedicating strategic and creative resources to the positioning and expansion of Inchcape Testing Services as a worldwide testing organization," stated Maureen Doerr, founder and owner of Doerr Associates.

Inchcape Testing Services, the second largest testing organization in the world, awards use of the ETL Listed and Warnock Hersey Listed marks in the U. S. and Canada and provides certification of quality systems (ISO 9000). The Inchcape plc group operates in more than 80 countries, providing service and representation for many of the world's best known companies. The group focuses on three main areas: motors, marketing and services.

ADS assisted living

The ADS Group, a senior housing firm with roots in North Andover, is preparing to begin construction this summer on the first assisted living community ever built in the Merrimack Valley. The community will be known as Heritage at North Andover and will offer 100 residences for seniors who are no longer able to stay home but who need supportive services to stay independent.

Construction of Heritage at North Andover will begin with the demolition of the Merrimack Valley Motor Inn, which currently sits on the eight-acre parcel of land on Route 125. The $10 million, 64,000-square-foot, assisted-living community, designed by CBT Architects of Boston, is being constructed by Cranshaw Construction of New England, which is based in Newton. THE REAL ESTATE CORNER with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

ESTIMATING CLOSING COSTS

When you buy a home, there are charges in addition to the down payment called "closing costs". These include the "points" you pay on your mortgage loan, state or local transfer taxes, title and hazard insurance, the title search, legal fees, and other charges imposed by the lender. These charges vary by state and county, and they usually represent a considerable amount of money.

When you begin your search for a new home, your Realtor can give you information about the closing costs for your area, and you can use this to decide how much house you can afford. When you apply for your mortgage loan, the lender is required to provide you with a good faith estimate of what your closing costs will be, and this is usually very close to the actual amount, since you will have a ratified contract with the price and terms of your new home spelled out. As your closing day approaches, the Realtor handling the paperwork will give you a final figure, and that will be the amount of the check you bring to closing.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

ADS building assisted living community

completed by the summer of 1995.

The ADS Group and its affiliate ADS Senior Housing is an Andover-based firm that is one of the largest long-term care providers in the northeast and one of the fastest growing long-term care companies in the United States, according to ADS.

The firm's founder and president, Alan D. Solomont, began his career in 1978 as the administrator of Prescott House Nursing Home in North Andover. His company, The ADS Group, began operations in North Andover in 1985, and currently owns and/or manages 36 skilled nursing facilities across New England, including Prescott House and Sutton Hill Nursing and Retirement Center in North Andover.

Mr. Solomont is past president of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes and is active in community and statewide industry and civic organizations.

Heritage at North Andover received approval from the North Andover Planning Board and Zoning Board of Appeals in July. According to Jim Gordon, North Andover's town manager, the addition of the apartments and community space fills a real need in the Merrimack Valley.

The new assisted-living community will include studio and one-bedroom apartments with kitchenettes and private bathrooms. Also incorporated into the three-story rambling house-type design will be a living room, library, bistro/store, lounges, dining rooms, beauty salon and other common areas.

Assisted living is a relatively new form of senior housing that offers assistance, support services and personal care for those who have difficulty living alone but do not need the level of care provided in a nursing home setting. Services typically provided include three meals a day, weekly house-keeping, laundry, transportation, social and recreational activities and personal care.

According to Thomas H. Grape, managing partner of ADS Senior Housing, the assisted living industry is growing because of the increasing number of seniors and significant consumer preference for remaining in a residential environment.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

RETIRE? ON WHAT?

According to a recent government sponsored survey, 40 percent of Americans between the ages of 51 and 61 expect Social Security benefits to take care of their retirement needs. The U.S. Department of Labor, however, states that married couples earning between $50,000 and $100,000 can expect Social Security benefits to replace only 16 percent of their income. As for pension benefits, only about half of all U.S. households are covered by pension plans of any kind. Those who are covered can only expect them to replace 15 to 20 percent of their final salaries. That leaves the third corner of the retirement triangle, personal savings, to make up the difference. One study recommends an after-tax savings rate of 9 to 19 percent for households with private pensions between the ages of 35 and 45. So, beginning and maintaining a vigorous savings and investment program for our latest years is imperative if we are to meet our eventual retirement needs. Please let us help you arrange an investment schedule and select the sorts of investments that will help you meet your future goals.

At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, we offer financial services in areas of investments, pension and retirement, life insurance and estate planning, group benefits, and fee-based financial planning. If you have any questions or would like to schedule an appointment, please call us at 475-9212. Our office here in Andover is located at 10 Essex Street. We also have an office at 100 N. Washington Street in Boston (617) 523-4500. I am a Chartered Financial Consultant, and written and verbal references are available upon request.

HINT: Married couples are currently saving at about half the rate of 20 years ago (about 5 percent of disposable income on average).

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

AN EMERGING PROBLEM

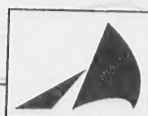

As the third molar (wisdom tooth) emerges in late adolescence, the gum tissue around the partially erupted tooth may be subject to infection and inflammation. This condition (known as pericoronitis) should not be viewed in the same light as normal teething, which simply involves irritability and minor inflammation as a tooth pushes up through the gum. Pericoronitis is caused by accumulated food debris and the growth of bacteria beneath the loose gum tissue. The condition may be further complicated by the trauma of an opposing tooth closing down on the swollen gum tissue. To keep the traumatized tissue clean, the patient should irrigate the gum flap. Antibiotics will cure the infection. Reinfection may be prevented by removing the loose tissue and fully exposing the tooth's crown.

It's hard to be happy when your mouth hurts. If erupting wisdom teeth, infection, or unattractive teeth prevent you from smiling, take care of the problem with the help of your dentist. Here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133 (with easy access off Rt 93), we care how you feel and work with you to help you achieve optimal oral health. For complete, gentle dental care with a smile for everyone in your family, please call us at 475-2431. Hrs.: Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, & by appointment. Celebrate National Oral Hygiene Week (9/1 - 9/8) with us! Have your teeth cleaned.

P.S. In the event that there is not sufficient room in the jaw for a fully erupted wisdom tooth, it should be removed.

Another small delay in Memorial Hall Library construction

By Neil Fater

Since the 1980s, the planned construction to Memorial Hall Library's front entrance has progressed more slowly than the average George Elliot novel. Reading Ms. Elliot seems to take years. But the long-awaited final chapter of the construction saga may begin today, Thursday, Sept. 1.

Library officials were scheduled to meet this morning with Fletcher Granite Co., the firm responsible for cutting and delivering the granite for the entrance beautification project, according to Jim Sutton, library director. The purpose of the meeting is to confirm that the project's granite was cut according to plan.

The mason responsible for laying the granite is not positive that all of the pieces will fit properly around the designed curve.

"It appears that the granite has been cut and all of the granite is not fitting as it should," said Mr. Sutton. "We have some concerns that some of the granite pieces are not the right size."

If the pieces are shaped incorrectly, Mr. Sutton said he expects the company to recut the granite promptly at no cost to the town. If there are no problems with the granite, then Mr. Sutton estimated the planned granite and brick walkway in front of the library steps will be complete by the end of this week or by early next week.

Work on the repainted and redecorated front foyer is almost complete and the ground in front of the library is prepared for the planned granite sidewalks with fences and brick oval walkway.

This entrance design was part of the construction plan that doubled the library's size in the mid-to-late 1980s, according to Beth Mazin, assistant library director.

The entrance improvements were never completed because of a state funding shortfall, but when the state reimbursed the town $42,441 last year, the library asked residents to approve using approximately $20,000 of this money to finally complete the entrance project. Instead, Special Town Meeting voted to use all of the $42,441 to purchase new books. At the time of Special Town Meeting, the Library Board of Trustees reported that it had raised approximately $38,000 for the entrance improvements. It continued its fundraising efforts, and Mr. Sutton said it has raised approximately $64,000.

The current project is estimated to cost approximately $65,000, which is $15,000 less than the $80,000 project planned earlier in the summer, because "we cut back on some of the things like benches and landscaping," said Mr. Sutton.

Day Surgery

IN & OUT FOR SAME DAY SERVICE

The LGH community is your family and ours.

COMFORT

The winter was long and hard and our son Alex had a sore throat it seemed all through the season. At our last visit to the pediatrician, the doctor suggested a tonsillectomy. She made arrangements for the Day Surgery team at Lawrence General to do the procedure. Off we went on a bright and sunny Tuesday morning in early spring. The staff made Alex feel special. They understood that while this might be one of hundreds of tonsillectomies they'd do this year.

it was the only one our son was going to have. And the fact that he'd be in and out in one day made it so much easier on him and on us.

RESPECT

The doctors and nurses explained everything to us. I was especially impressed with the way they spoke directly to Alex. Being treated that way really seemed to calm him. But what mattered most was the way they treated our family. They used a smile as well as they used their high-tech surgical equipment, and it sure worked for us.

67-year-old man burned in trailer explosion

By Don Staruk

A 67-year-old man was burned on several parts of his body last Thursday night, Aug. 25, when a propane explosion tore apart his camper at 73 Harold Parker Road.

John Howell Sr., 67, who lived at that address for 29 years but who now lives at the Bedford Veterans Administration Hospital in Bedford, suffered first- and second-degree burns on his head, face, hands, arms and chest. He was held overnight at Lawrence General Hospital for observation and treatment, then released.

According to Deputy Fire Chief Robert Boush, Mr. Howell's son, John Howell Jr., found his father outside the trailer, walking away from the debris immediately after the explosion. The trailer was completely destroyed.

"He didn't evacuate the trailer, the trailer evacuated him," Deputy Boush said of the senior Mr. Howell.

The younger Mr. Howell and his wife, Heather, and their daughter, Alicia, 2, now live at the home, according to the deputy. The 23-foot Jayco travel trailer was purchased last year for the senior Mr. Howell to stay in when he came to visit. The trailer was equipped with two 30-pound propane gas cylinders that supplied a heater, stove and refrigerator. The electricity and water were serviced from an adjacent barn.

According to Deputy Boush, the original refrigerator had had problems and was removed a few months ago, but the gas lines were never capped or plugged. The senior Mr. Howell bought and installed a new electric refrigerator earlier Thursday, but apparently forgot about the still-open gas lines.

Just before the 7:51 p.m. explosion, he had gone outside and turned on the gas so he could make himself a cup of instant coffee on the stove. After he drank the coffee, he went to lie down. The senior Mr. Howell said that, to the best of his recollection, he was sitting on the bed at the back of the trailer with his feet on the floor when the explosion occurred, according to the deputy.

Deputy Boush speculated that the compressor on the new electric refrigerator kicked on, igniting the gas that was entering the trailer from the open pipes.

The younger Mr. Howell and his family were in the house at Christine Anderson of Andover was State Rep. Gary Coon's intern this summer. Ms. Anderson assisted Rep. Coon and legislative aide Walter Radulski in running the Boston office. She assisted Mr. Coon with tracking legislation, handling constituent phone inquiries, and researching bills. She also assisted in researching and responding to constituent mail, and learned a lot about issues, ranging from environmental protection to welfare reform.

As an intern, Ms. Anderson participated in the Statehouse Speakers Program, which is run by the Senate Legislative Education Office. The program is designed to give interns the opportunity to meet people from all aspects of state government, from the executive branch to lobbyists and the press. From these political leaders the interns gained insight into the legislative process, as well as individuals' reasons for becoming involved in politics, views on the issues, and their thoughts on the future of Massachusetts politics.

Ms. Anderson has witnessed both the House and Senate in formal session debating and voting on such heated issues as capital punishment and welfare. "This is an incredible learning experience. It has been an exciting and amazing experience watching government in action. I have really enjoyed helping Rep. Coon serve the people of Andover and Lawrence," said Ms. Anderson.

Max N. Dawson, Jon D. Iarrobino and Melanie A. McGarry are entering Bates College in Lewiston, Maine, as first-year students. All three students are graduates of Andover High School.

Mr. Dawson is the son of Adrian and Molly Dawson of 7 Belle Isle Way. He was a member of the student government and track and cross-country teams.

Mr. Iarrobino is the son of Joseph and Jayne Iarrobino of 14 Cricket Circle. He was active in student government, the yearbook, music and community service and was a member of the tennis and soccer teams and the National Honor Society.

Ms. McGarry is the daughter of William and Penelope McGarry of 16 Bannister Road. She was a member of the cross-country and track teams and the National Honor Society.

Lehigh University awarded 1,150 degrees during the its 126th commencement exercises May 29. Matthew Hoerle Daly of 11 Rose Glen Drive received a bachelor of science degree with a major in environmental science.

Heather McNemar and Eric Behling of Andover, juniors at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., were cited for outstanding academic achievement during the 1994 spring term.

Ms. McNemar, the daughter of Donald and Britta McNemar, was cited for outstanding work in two courses in Russian.

Mr. Behling, the son of H.H. and Margaret Behling, was cited for outstanding work in a chemistry course.

Members of the Dartmouth faculty submit citation reports only when a student's work is sufficiently distinguished to merit special recognition. Such citations are rare; typically, only a few undergraduates receive citations each term, according to the college.

Natalie Dowell, daughter of D'Arcy and Gloria Dowell of Andover and Laconia, N.H., has been named to the dean's list at Merrimack College for the spring semester. She is an accounting and business major.

The Guzowski Memorial Scholarship Committee has awarded this year's scholarship to Tricia Duarte, daughter of Richard and Linda Duarte of 31 School St.

Tricia Duarte

The Andover High School graduate will attend Fairfield University in the fall. She was a foreign exchange student and a member of a host family. She is intrigued with different cultures and will pursue an education in international studies.

Art in The Park: 20 years of encouraging young artists

The Andovers Artists Guild will celebrate the 20th year of its annual fundraiser, Art in The Park, Saturday, Sept. 17, in The Park, Bartlet and Chestnut streets. Monies raised are awarded each spring to talented young artists at their spring graduations. More than $25,400 in awards have been presented since the guild's inception 20 years ago.

The list of successful scholarship recipients is long. Many young students are today working in art-related fields and/or making art. Three talented former Andover recipients are Len Peltier, 1980 recipient; David Seeley, 1978 winner; and Martha MacLeish, 1980 awardee.

Len Peltier of Hollywood, Calif., attended and graduated from Syracuse University in 1984. Currently he is vice president of creative services for Virgin Records, responsible for all art, design, packaging and imaging of artists for Virgin Records Worldwide. He has won numerous awards, including Print Magazine's Best of Design award, and the 1992 Grammy Award for best album package.

David Seeley of Boston, a Rice University graduate holding B.A. degrees in both architecture (1984) and art in architecture/fine arts (1982), is currently the project designer for the new Boston police headquarters, working for Stull and Lee/Primary architectural group firm in Boston. Some of Mr. Seeley's many awards and honors include Boston's Best Business Interior, 1987. He recently received a second-place award for the oldest scholarship for the advancement of education in architecture through studies in foreign countries, the Rotch travelling scholarship, in 1994 and will travel this fall through the month of February.

Martha MacLeish of Savannah, Ga., received a B.F.A. in painting and a B.A. in art history from UMass in 1985. She continued her studies at Yale University School of Art, receiving a M.F.A. in painting in 1988. Ms. MacLeish has taught at the Betsy Ross Arts Magnet School, New Haven, Conn., Savannah College of Art and Design in Savannah.

West Fest '94 plans are coming together

There was no long summer break for the planners of West Fest 1994. These members of the West Middle School PAC were busy all summer organizing the festival, which will be held at West Middle School Friday, Sept. 30, through Sunday, Oct. 2.

West Fest is the third annual fund-raising event for West Middle School.

The proceeds benefit the student fund and pay for cultural-enrichment programs.

As the first order of business, the West Middle Student Council selected a winner of the student logo contest for this year's festival. Courtney Famiglietti, an eighth-grade student, won the contest, and her drawing will appear on the posters, flyers, advertisements, and letterhead for West Fest '94.

The runner-up entry, drawn by eighth-grader Hillary Kelly, will illustrate the new and improved Dunk Tank.

Other business included finding "celebrities" to dunk in the Dunk Tank, selecting new "teen rides" (there will be plenty of rides for preschoolers and grade-schoolers, too), designing and printing publicity materials, organizing the ever-popular Candyworld, and arranging details with town officials and the Sam Pino Amusement Co.

A festival as large and involved as West Fest requires the involvement of many people. Some of those involved this summer include: Gloria Davis, Sharon Anderson and Pam Barry (West Fest '94 co-chairwomen); Cathryn Delude and Fran Peterson (publicity); Lynn Willey and Jacques Belair (PAC co-presidents); and Carol Rocca (PAC vice president).

For more information about West Fest 1994, call Gloria Davis at 475-8489.

STATE SENATOR

John O'Brien . . .

ON WELFARE REFORM

"Everyone agrees that the welfare system in Massachusetts is broken, but what has kept the legislature from fixing the system has been the failure to recognize that "work" must be at the heart of the reform effort.

That is why I proposed a comprehensive welfare plan that includes a mandatory work requirement for able-bodied recipients and a family cap on the amount of benefits that a family may receive. Under my plan, welfare benefits would end after two years.

We need to keep moving forward in our effort to fundamentally reform our system of welfare, and with your help, I will continue to lead the fight for the changes that you demand.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

MORE THAN FOR APPEARANCES SAKE

The majority of overweight people who seek to lose pounds do so for the sake of their appearance. However, carrying too much weight can pose more of a risk to health. Those who are obese, which is defined as exceeding the ideal weight of a person of particular height and build by 20 pounds, place excessive strain on their backs. Excess weight, particularly when it is carried on the abdomen, exerts additional pull on the muscles that support it. As a result, the balance of the spine may be compromised to the point where back pain results. With a solid educational background in nutrition, the chiropractor is prepared to deal with back pain in obese patients on both a physical and dietary level.

We are concerned with your total health and are committed to finding the source of your problem not covering up your symptoms. If you want to achieve this goal please call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. We offer natural and safe care for the entire family and accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. Have a happy and safe Labor Day!

P.S. Moderate exercise and sound nutritional habits can produce safe, gradual, sustainable weight loss, unlike fad "diets."

Wojtkun 50th

Dr. and Mrs. Bruno Stanley Wojtkun of Palm Aire Country Club, Sarasota, Fla., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with family and friends at the Sheraton in Portsmouth, N.H. Family members included children and grandchildren from Florida, Virginia and New Hampshire. Friends came from Canada, Florida, Ohio and Pennsylvania. The afternoon was highlighted by a theme banquet, "Enjoyable Moments to Remember," and special Polish music and dancing.

Dr. and Mrs. Wojtkun were married May 20, 1944, at Mission Hill Church in Roxbury. Dr. Wojtkun was a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy and had recently completed service in the North Atlantic and Argentina. Janina Wojtkun was employed by Jordan's Department Store and was active in Polish cultural groups and the USO. Shortly after the wedding, Dr. and Mrs. Wojtkun were Capt. and Mrs. Charles Phillip Phleger, U.S.N. (Ret.) of 3 Tallyho Lane, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alison Lee, to Robert Stewart Nixon of Brookline, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nixon of Brookline and West Yarmouth.

Both Ms. Phleger and Mr. Nixon are graduates of the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Ms. Phleger is a 1982 graduate of Andover High School. Mr. Nixon is a 1981 graduate of Brookline High School.

Their wedding will take place June 10, 1995.

stationed at Hunter College in New York City. When World War II ended, they moved to Lawrence, where Dr. Wojtkun established his dental practice.

Howard-Murphy

Marjorie Howard of 10 Argyle St. announces the engagement of her daughter, Rebecca A., to Kevin F. Murphy of 51 Summer St.

Ms. Howard is also the daughter of the late Stanley W. Howard. She graduated from Andover High in 1987 and UMass in 1991. She is a clinical technician at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Mr. Murphy is the son of James F. Murphy of 256 River Road and the late Sandra M. Murphy. He graduated from Andover High in 1990 and UMass in 1993. He is in sales at Industrial Protection Products.

They plan a September wedding.

They then moved to Andover, where they lived for more than 35 years. After "semi-retirement" in Hampton, N.H., Dr. and Mrs. Wojtkun moved to Florida.

Skahan-Walsh

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Skahan Jr. of Winchester announce the engagement of their daughter, Deirdre Mary, to Kevin Patrick Walsh, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Walsh of Andover.

Ms. Skahan is a 1987 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1991 graduate of Providence College. She received her master's degree in public administration from Suffolk University in May.

Mr. Walsh is a 1986 graduate of Andover High School and a 1990 graduate of Providence College. He is pursuing a master's degree in business administration. He is employed by Koll Management Services in Boston.

They plan a January wedding.

RELIGION NEWS

Greek Festival '94 is Sept. 9-11 at Sts. Constantine and Helen

By Elaine Kevgas

Parishioners of Sts. Constantine and Helen Church are preparing their grounds for the upcoming Greek Festival '94, slated for Sept. 9-11. The church at 71 Chandler Road will be transformed into a Greek village complete with taverna, kafenneo, zaharoplastio, loukoumathes, yiayia's attic, and an agora. Outside Andover, travel down Route 495 or Route 93 to exit 43N or 45S follow the signs to the Greater Lawrence Technical School on River Road; West Elementary School on Chandler Road; or the Chandler Road Soccer Field. Park your car in a security-patrolled parking lot, hop on the shuttle bus and travel to a Grecian village free of charge.

Once you've arrived at Greek Festival '94, you will have a multitude of adventures awaiting. A visit to the new church edifice is a must, where festival-goers will be able to view a brand new iconostasis recently installed by the renowned Syrio Tonelli. This solid brass and mosaic iconostasis was the gift of Mrs. George Demoulas and her children in memory of her deceased husband and their son, Evan. After the church tour, browse through the agora, which is complete with crafts, Greek costumes and 14-karat jewelry, as well as Greek tapes and videos, Greek ceramics and porcelain, T-shirts and sweatshirts, clothing, Greek grocery items, and a religious-item booth, as well as many gift items. Perhaps a cool drink might be on your mind... under the giant tent an array of alcoholic- and non-alcoholic drinks will be available for your drinking pleasure, while you sit and listen to live Greek music by Achilleas of Washington, D.C., and his orchestra. Perhaps a drink in the kafenneo might be more to your liking. Look for the brightly decorated tent resembling the Athenian kafenneo that you might have once visited. A Greek cup of coffee and a piece of pita or pastry might be just what the palette craves. Gourmet coffees will also be available in the kafenneo.

A trip to the zaharoplastio will allow you to view an array of homemade delicacies, prepared by the parishioners, which will be available for instant consumption or may be boxed to take home and enjoyed later. A walk through yiayia's attic is sure to uncover that treasure you have long been searching. Have your children along - a stop at the children's area is a must. Games, video games, face-painting, a dunk tank, and a make-and-take craft table will be found in this area. On the way back to the giant tent, stop by the Bid-N-Buy, where you will have an opportunity to try your luck at a display of 50 gift items. You may be equally as lucky at the Mega Raffle, where you could win a 1994 Dodge Shadow or $4,000 cash.

For dinner, stop under the tent where lamb souvlakia, fish plaki, chicken kabob, or a pikelia plate will be available as entrees. Perhaps, an a la carte item might be more in line: dolmathes, mousakka, pastichio, tiropita, spanakopita or Greek salad may be found here.

If a complete dinner is not on your agenda, a stop by the fast-food booth might be more to your liking. Hot dogs, hamburgers, gyros, locanico, or beef souvlaki on pita bread will be found here. Sharing this tent are the loukoumathes. No trip to a Grecian village will be complete without a plate of freshly made loukoumathes. And no visit to Greece would be complete without watching young dancers. At Greek Festival '94, Saturday evening guests will have the opportunity to view dancers from Worcester, who will perform two shows. In addition, Friday through Sunday, the Greek School students will perform four shows daily. For youngsters, someone dressed as a purple dinosaur will arrive Friday evening.

Havurat Shalom announces services

Havurat Shalom, a Reconstructionist Jewish congregation, announces its High Holy Day observances for the new year will be held at the Trinitarian Church Hall, Elm Street, North Andover.

Rosh Hashana services will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6. They will be followed by a sharing of challah and sweet breads and fruits. Yom Kippur services will begin at 10 a.m.

Thursday, Sept. 16. Cellist William Thomas and pianist Carolyn Skelton of Phillips Academy will contribute music at the service. At sundown, families will reassemble for a potluck ceremonial "breaking of the fast," which for many would have begun at sundown the previous evening. Child care will be provided at both services. The community is invited; non-members are requested to contribute a donation of $20 per family.

Havurat Shalom is a community of families in the Merrimack Valley committed to providing a Jewish identity and education for its members, in a manner that is relevant to contemporary life. A warm extended family is provided to single parents, those without children, families of mixed heritage and those who have been or are members of any other Jewish congregation, or have not recently practiced Judaism. Holiday observances, sabbath and havdallah services, adult discussion groups, religious school, community-action activities and a youth group are just some of the available programs and activities. Havurat Shalom is a member agency of the Merrimack Valley Jewish Federation. Call membership chairwoman Cyndy Demont at 470-3795.

OBITUARIES

Ronald J. Kunkel President, CEO of area business

Ronald J. Kunkel, 52, of Apache Avenue, the president and CEO of Diamond Crystal Specialty Foods Inc., in Wilmington, died Tuesday, Aug. 23, at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, after a brief illness.

Mr. Kunkel was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, and received a degree from Georgetown University and an executive master's degree from Harvard University.

Mr. Kunkel worked in the food services industry for more than 25 years. Before his employment at Diamond Crystal, he served as president of Campbell's Food Service Co. He was also president and CEO of Serv-A-Portion.

He was a member of the Los Angeles chapter of the Young President's Organization, an international association of executives who have become CEOs or presidents by the age of 30.

In addition, he enjoyed counseling and assisting young people with their educational and career paths.

In his leisure time, he enjoyed fishing and playing pool with his son, Ross.

Family members include his wife, Joanne (Labuda) Kunkel; a son, Ross, of Andover; daughters, Kristian Reed and her husband, Brian, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Kerrin McPhail and her husband, Kenneth, of New York, N.Y.; brothers, Richard of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Donald of San Diego, Calif.; and a sister, Shirley Burns of Orlando, Fla.

He was the son of the late Edward A. Kunkel, originally from New Orleans, La., and the late Thelma M. Brown, originally of Lockland, Ohio.

A Mass was celebrated at St. Augustine Church, with burial in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Memorial donations may be made to the Andover Hockey Association Endowment Fund, Box 323, Andover, Mass. 01810.

Anne M. Hume Daughter lives here

Anne M. (Maguire) Hume, 63, of Lawrence, died Tuesday, Aug. 23, at Lawrence General Hospital.

Born and educated in Reading, she graduated from Reading High School.

Mrs. Hume moved to the Lawrence area in the 1970s with her family.

She was the widow of Richard G. Hume, who died in April.

Family members include her sons, David M. Hume and his wife, Beth, of Boston, and Richard J. Hume of Stamford, N.Y.; daughters, Catherine E. Scism and her husband, William S., of Andover, and Carol Hume of Englewood, Fla.; sisters, Margery Maguire and Jean Maguire, both of North Reading; and three grandchildren.

There were no calling hours. Services were private and under the direction of the Allen-Mundry Funeral Home, 402 Broadway, Lawrence.

Charles S. Johnson Born in Andover

Charles S. Johnson, 48, a former longtime Danville, N.H., resident, died Aug. 7 in Florida where he had been living for six years.

Born in Andover, he was the son of Charles and Grace (Gibson) Johnson of Elkton, Fla.

Mr. Johnson was an avid motorcycle enthusiast and was a member of the New Hampshire Motorcycle Club.

He owned and operated Chuck's Repair Shop in Danville for many years.

Besides his parents, family members include his sons, Paul S. of Amesbury; and Gregory C. of Haverhill; three grandchildren; sisters, Diane Johnson Fuller of Tewksbury, and Linda Cooper of Florida; his companion, Brenda Harrison of Elkton, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

Private services will be held at a later date. Calling hours were held at the Peabody Funeral Home in Sandown, N.H.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, c/o Madeline Saulnier, Volunteer Memorial Chairwoman, 81 Litchfield Road, Londonderry, N.H. 03053, or to a local chapter of Hospice.

Helen Doherty Formerly of Andover

Helen "Nellie" (Downs) Doherty, 98, of 90 West St., Wilmington, and formerly of Andover, died Wednesday at Woodbriar of Wilmington.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, she was a member of the Scottish Clan Auxiliary and St. Augustine Church, both in Andover.

She was the widow of Peter Doherty.

Family members include a son, Edward Doherty of Tucson, Ariz.; a daughter, Eleanor Mahoney and her husband, Charles, of Reading; many grandchildren and great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

She was also the mother of the late Mary Crow, formerly of Bradford.

Services were private. Arrangements were by the Burke Funeral Home, 390 North Main St.

Daniel E. Connors Avid reader and outdoorsman

Daniel E. Connors, 76, of North Andover, died Thursday, Aug. 25, shortly after being admitted to Lawrence General Hospital.

Born and educated in Lawrence, Mr. Connors lived in North Andover for more than 45 years.

He retired from the Converse Rubber Co. in Andover after three decades of service.

Mr. Connors was an avid outdoorsman who enjoyed hunting and fishing.

His family said another of his favorite past-times was reading at least two books a week.

He was an attendant of St. Patrick Church in Lawrence.

Family members include a son, Kenneth, and his wife, Barbara, of North Andover; brothers, Francis J. of Tewksbury and Maurice B. of Methuen; a sister, Rita Trainor of Orleans; four grandchildren; one great-granddaughter; and several nieces and nephews.

A Mass was celebrated at St. Patrick Church, Lawrence, followed by burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, North Andover.

Arrangements were by Dewhirst & Conte of North Andover.

Dorothea Hart Formerly of Andover

Dorothea (Badger) Hart, 72, of Orleans, formerly of Andover, and a native of Ashmont, died Friday, Aug. 26.

These Thoughts*

by Garry A. Burke

TO OUR CHILDREN

Anyone who cherishes children should find satisfaction in Ralph Waldo Emerson's words: "The child with his sweet pranks, the fool of his senses, commanded by every sight and sound, without any power to compare and rank his sensations, abandoned to a whistle or a painted chip, to a lead dragon, or a gingerbread dog, individualizing everything, generalizing nothing, delighted with every new thing, lies down at night overpowered by the fatigue, which this day of continual pretty madness has incurred. But Nature has answered her purpose with the curly, dimpled lunatic. She has tasked every faculty, and has secured the symmetrical growth of the bodily frame, by all those attitudes and exertions - an end of the first importance, which could not be trusted to any care less perfect than her own."

Children are not as vulnerable as most of us think, but they are subject to fears and traumas that grow out of well-intended attempts to shelter them from learning about death. To find out how to talk to your children about death, contact the friendly professionals at BURKE FUNERAL HOME. During this painful time, we are here to offer you friendship, trust, and above all else, caring. We can be reached at 475-5200 and are open seven days a week. You'll find us conveniently located at 390 North Main Street. Have a wonderful Labor Day weekend.

QUOTE: "Children have never been very good at listening to their elders, but they have never failed to imitate them."

DCS to hold auditions for Confetti Kids

The Department of Community Services will hold auditions for Confetti Kids on Friday, Sept. 9, at 3:30 p.m. in the West Elementary School auditorium on Beacon Street. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Membership is for children in grades 3 through 9 who live in the Merrimack Valley.

Children should come prepared to perform a simple monologue, such as a nursery rhyme, child's poem or dramatic interpretation. They will be asked to sing one verse of America (My Country 'Tis of Thee). Participants will be chosen for poise, dramatic ability and voice quality.

ty and voice quality.

Confetti Kids will meet Thursdays in West Elementary School's music room from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. Participants will develop their theatrical skills with skits, pantomimes and improvisational exercises in class. The group also develops a musical repertoire and performs occasionally at community events. Members of the group pay a tuition fee to DCS and a costume fee.

For more information about Confetti Kids, contact the Department of Community Services, Josie Walker or Karen Detterman.

the time and felt the explosion. The force of the blast blew a rack off a cabinet door.

When the Howells looked outside, they thought the barn was on fire because the trailer was on the far side of the barn and they could see flames through the windows of the barn.

Mr. Howell ran outside as his wife called the fire department.

After seeing the trailer, and his father walking around outside of it, the younger Mr. Howell shut the gas off at the tanks, then cut the water hose leading to the trailer and used it to extinguish the residual flames around where the gas from the pipes had still been burning.

Several neighbors who heard the blast rushed to the home almost immediately, according to Deputy Boush.

Denise Littlefield named acting assistant superintendent

dent of schools.

"There's really exciting parts of this job right now. It's an opportunity that doesn't always come around, whether in this or another educational field," Ms. Littlefield agreed Wednesday. "This opportunity came a little sooner than I expected."

Ms. Littlefield is a doctoral candidate at University of Massachusetts-Lowell and is the current assistant principal at West Elementary School. She worked in the Methuen public schools for a number of years before coming to Andover in 1992.

School officials laud Ms. Littlefield's knowledge of curriculum and staff development, areas they expect her to focus on heavily as the interim assistant superintendent.

"That's probably what I have the most experience with," said Ms. Littlefield. "That seems to be, for this transition year, a big aspect of the job."

Ms. Littlefield has been a member of Andover's Staff Development Commission since 1992 and "had a number of different experiences before coming to Andover," said Mr. Neal.

Among these experiences were time spent as team leader of Methuen's Primary Curriculum Committee from 1989 to 1992, chairwoman of the Kindergarten Curriculum Team from 1987 to 1989, and coordinator of the Teen Parenting Task Force from 1987 to 1989.

Charles Friel, West Elementary principal, said Wednesday morning that he expected the search for a new assistant principal to begin "as soon as possible."

"There's certainly going to be a period of transition where Ms. Littlefield will be partially here and partially there," said Mr. Friel. "She'll be here for the opening of school."

"I feel strongly that I need to accomplish some things at the West Elementary School (before leaving). Otherwise

Denise Benner Littlefield

I would be deserting the youngsters," said Ms. Littlefield.

She said she plans to set up the student government and the parent volunteer program before switching to full-time duties as assistant superintendent.

"I want to make sure that it's solid and in place," she said of these programs. "I want to be here to greet the children and the parents on the first day of school."

Five Andover-system people were interviewed for the interim assistant superintendent position by a panel of three teachers, two administrators, Mr. Neal and Candace Hall, personnel director for the town.

According to Ms. Hall, Mr. Neal made the final decision.

Mr. Neal, the former assistant superintendent, assumed the interim superintendent position when Mark McQuilgan left to become superintendent of Lincoln's K-8 program. School officials expect to begin their superintendent search in January and appoint a new school head by May.

Committee member.

The projected figures used by the school system were devised in 1992 by Frank Paul, former school business manager. Mr. Paul was also hired by the town last year to analyze possible cost-reporting problems within the department of municipal maintenance.

Mr. Paul's projections state that Andover High will have 1,361 students this year. As of Aug. 26, 1,255 students were enrolled, 106 students less than predicted.

Although there are also 26 fewer stu-

Teachers without contract But positive negotiations continue

By Neil Fater

Teachers will return to school today armed with new notebooks, red pens and class schedules. But they won't have a new contract.

Although Andover's teacher contract expired yesterday, Aug. 31, teachers will return to school today for the first of two preparation days. School officials appear satisfied with the progress and tone of negotiations and do not believe teachers are likely to picket as they did during the last negotiations.

"There's not even a hint of that, as it stands right now," said Lloyd Willey, School Committee member. "As long as both sides are working very cooperatively, I don't see where we'll have a problem."

While negotiations are running smoothly, however, school administrators and committee members are unsure when the sides will agree to a new contract.

Dick Neal, interim superintendent of schools, presented a time line for the schools' 1994-1995 goals at Tuesday night's School Committee meeting. He suggested that the School Committee "review all contractual timelines and make appropriate changes in contractual language through negotiation" by October. He said he hopes negotiations will be completed before then. Teachers will remain under their previous contract, without a cost-of-living raise, until they reach a new agreement.

Tom Meyers, president of the teachers' union, could not be reached for comment.

"The Education Reform Bill has caused a number of changes in terms of when things have to be done," said Mr. Neal. "There may be agreement on certain parts of (the contract before then) and it may be possible that it will be done sooner."

"Oct. 1 is not a magic date in my book at all. That's more like a deadline," said Mary Lyman, committee member.

The current school budget does not include money to fund teacher salary increases, a situation Mr. Willey describes as "probably the biggest issue. We've been spending a good part of the summer trying to figure that out."

"We've been examining our resources and our contract to see what changes we think are important," said Ms. Lyman.

Mr. Willey said there may be some savings due to unexpected teacher retirements that can be used to pay for raises. He said any agreement will likely be retroactive to the beginning of this school year.

"It seems to be going fairly well. We feel very confident this thing is going to work out without some of the problems we've had in the past. As far as the timing, that's up in the air," he said.

Working on communication

The School Committee tried to improve communication Tuesday night by approving $70,000 for new Andover High School computer lab equipment. Then, they tried to iron out how the School Building Committee can best inform the School Committee of school building program updates.

At the suggestion of Dick Muller, School Committee chairman, the new lab equipment will be funded out of the $2 million technology override money, money approved for updates in the schools not included in the $38.5 million override. If approved by the necessary town officials, the High School will only "borrow" this equipment until the money from the $26.5 million for the High School project becomes available. At that time the computer equipment will be sent to the middle schools.

School Committee stands by enrollment figures

By Neil Fater

With the opening of school a week away, enrollment figures for Andover High School and the elementary schools continue to remain at odds with the projections used to create the $38.5 million school building project.

But school officials supported the relative accuracy of the figures Tuesday night.

"It's going along on track, generally speaking. I think projections are still fairly good, despite what you read in the paper," said Lloyd Willey, School

dents enrolled at the middle school than estimated, there are 90 more students currently enrolled at the elementary level.

The elementary schools also have registration days planned for this week that could raise the numbers.

"We have enrollment days at several of the buildings so we'll be updating those (figures) at the end of the week," said Gail Zeman, school business manager.

"No one has a crystal ball," said Dick Muller, School Committee chairman. "What we're really looking at is a trend and the trend is increased enrollments."

The School Committee rejected a proposal by Jim Marsh, School Building Committee chairman, to add two new classrooms onto Sanborn School as part of the current project. The School Committee preferred to follow the proposed plan that will add classrooms onto Sanborn in three-to-five years if they are deemed necessary.

Mr. Neal said that class sizes in the schools are "within School Committee guidelines at every grade level."

What does it take to be legally intoxicated?

The test was performed Wednesday night, Aug. 24, at the Andover police station with the help of Sgt. William MacKenzie Jr. and Patrolman Bob Cronin.

Jim Barenboim, an Andover selectman, Abby Parsons, a waitress and bartender at Eighteen Elm Street restaurant, and Eric Stubenhaus, a clinical psychologist with offices at 63 Park St., agreed to take part in the test.

Mr. Barenboim drank Miller Lite beer, Ms. Parsons drank Chardonnay white wine, and Dr. Stubenhaus was assigned Dewars scotch mixed with soda.

The beer is about 4.2 percent alcohol. The wine was 12.5 percent alcohol and the scotch was 40 percent, or 80 proof. Each of Dr. Stubenhaus' drinks contained about 1.5 ounces of scotch. The wine glass was small, and held about 5 ounces for each serving.

"A couple of drinks usually does it for me," Dr. Stubenhaus said.

Ms. Parsons said she would normally drink four or five beers on a night out. Mr. Barenboim said he primarily drinks beer, very rarely drinks at home, but consumes more when he is out to dinner or out with friends.

While officers Cronin and MacKenzie were split on whether the food someone eats has an effect on blood-alcohol level, they agree that weight is a large variable.

All three subjects ate a meal before the experiment, and chips and crackers were available to them during the two to two and a half hours. Mr. Barenboim, who weighs 175 pounds, had a spaghetti dinner a little more than an hour before his first beer. Dr. Stubenhaus, who weighs 158, had chicken with carrots and bread, and Ms. Parsons, 150 pounds, had a chicken, spinach and sausage dinner.

Andover Police Chief James Johnson warned that while statistics may indicate that an average person can have a certain number of drinks before he or she is legally OUI, operating under the influence, the type of drink greatly affects how much alcohol is involved. Some drinks, such as Long Island ice teas and mud slides, have three or more servings of alcohol, one to one and a half ounces per serving, in each drink.

The new "ice" beers vary greatly in alcohol content. A quick survey of beers at a local liquor store showed that Molson Ice is 5.6 percent alcohol while other ice beers are slightly less. Regular Budweiser is 4.8 percent and light beers are generally 4.2 percent.

Zema, a new and popular sweet malt liquor, is 4.7 percent alcohol. The chief said to obtain a more potent drink, some people like to mix Zema with Chambord, a raspberry-flavored liquor that is 24 percent alcohol.

Even O'Doul's, which is sold as alcohol-free beer, has up to 1 percent alcohol in it.

Rate of consumption

Mr. Barenboim finished his first beer in 15 minutes. Ms. Parsons finished her first wine a few minutes later, and Dr. Stubenhaus finished his first scotch in about 20 minutes. Ms. Parsons then performed a field sobriety test.

She said the alphabet, walked a straight line heel-to-toe, nine paces out and nine paces back, then, standing on one foot with the other raised in front of her and her arms out to her sides, she counted from 1 to 30 in thousands: 1, 1000; 2, 1,000; 3, 1,000 etc.

At least one observer present found this last test difficult without having anything to drink.

Ms. Parsons also took an eye nystagmus test, in which the subject faces forward and looks straight ahead while trying to follow a pencil from side to side. As the pencil gets toward 90 degrees away from center, the eye will begin to twitch from left to right. In a person under the influence, the twitch will become more pronounced and evident at lesser angles. Ms. Parsons did well the first time around.

Ms. Parsons finished her second wine in 30 minutes. Mr. Barenboim and Dr. Stubenhaus finished their second drinks in about 40 minutes.

Ms. Parsons started slurring her speech about 50 minutes into the test, halfway through her third wine. She admitted she had "a buzz" after about 15 ounces of wine, which would be about two and a half six- to seven-ounce glasses at a bar or restaurant.

About an hour after she started drinking, Ms. Parsons had consumed about 20 ounces of wine and said she was "buzzed." She recited the alphabet and managed the heel-to-toe walk on a straight line. She was also able to hit her nose with her index finger. She also managed to count while standing on one leg, but skipped one number.

She waited about 15 minutes, which was then about 75 minutes after she started drinking, then blew a .06, enough to hold her on an OUI charge.

But if she had been driving and passed the field sobriety test out on the street, and if there was no accident involving injuries or any other reason to bring her in, she would never have been subjected to the test.

Abby Parsons, a volunteer who also is a bartender, takes the nystagmus test, part of the field sobriety test.

"If I don't develop probable cause at the scene, I have to release her," Sgt. MacKenzie said.

Probable cause

When a driver suspected of OUI is stopped, the officer has to have probable cause to make an arrest. While most people assume that they are safe to drive if they are under a .08 on the breathalyzer, the truth is that anything over .05 in this state is "an indication" of being under the influence and sufficient to be placed in protective custody.

There is a chart that outlines for police the odds that someone is under the influence, depending on what driving offenses occurred.

Weaving indicates a 60 percent chance the operator is operating under the influence; drifting, 50 percent; swerving, 55; wide turn or cutting corners, 65; driving on the center line, 45 percent; without headlights, 30; using the wrong signal for a turn, 40; slow response to traffic lights, 40; deceleration, 30; riding brakes, 25 percent; over-ride stop line, 35 percent; and driving slowly, 50 percent.

The officer may smell alcohol or see beer cans in the car. Some people say police don't like the new Zema malt liquor because they can't smell it. Chief Johnson said that is the same reason alcoholics drink gin, but that other factors betray them.

Police also look for slurred speech or a "thick tongue," according to Sgt. MacKenzie, and watch for someone who has trouble "finding the ground" when getting out of the car. If the officer suspects the driver has been drinking, he will put the driver through a field sobriety test.

Finally, the officer has to make a decision and either make the arrest and take the person back to the station for a breath test, or let the driver go.

Back at the station

Back at the station, the field sobriety

Eric Stubenhaus, a volunteer who is a psychologist, listens to the police talk about liquor consumption and the law, while on his way to drinking four scotch-and-sodas.

is repeated by a second officer. Sgt. MacKenzie has had some people who were OUI but could still say the alphabet backward. Some people sing the alphabet like they learned when they were kids, he said.

There is a 20-minute observation period to be sure that alcohol in mouthwash or breath spray, both of which will register on the machine and will dissipate in 20 minutes, doesn't affect the test. The machine signals when radio waves are interfering with its operation, an excuse that used to account for many tests being thrown out of court. And the test can identify acetone, a chemical present in diabetes, which could alert officers to a possible medical problem.

The accused is then offered the option of taking a breath test. A person suspected of driving intoxicated has to be under arrest to be asked to take a breathalyzer test, but can refuse. If the driver doesn't take the test, the assumption is he or she is OUI, and the person's license is pulled.

The test itself consists of two forceful blows into a tube. Not blowing properly or refusing to follow instructions is considered a refusal.

The charge of OUI is dropped if the accused takes the test and passes with a .05 blood-alcohol reading or less. If the operator fails a field sobriety test, and there is probable cause, the operator can still be held in protective custody for up to 12 hours.

A reading of .06-.07 is not enough on its own to assume a driver is intoxicated, but there is an "inference" that the driver is drunk and, along with other evidence, that reading can still be used in court. The driver testing .06-.07 can also be placed in protective custody for up to 12 hours, or released to a friend or family member.

One volunteer said the law should be stricter

The machine is calibrated between blows to make sure it is functioning properly. A variation of more than .02 in the two results makes the test invalid.

If the suspect refuses the test, police take the driver's license away on the spot.

Police can charge a person under 21 years old with operating under the influence with any presence of alcohol in the blood, but the person must first be arrested on another charge. Police can also suspend the person's license for 180 days. Persons under 21 can also lose their license for having liquor in their car.

Police can also pull operators with a commercial drivers license off the road for 24 hours, and ticket the driver if the presence of any alcohol is detected in the blood stream.

After an hour

Mr. Barenboim finished three and a half beers in a little more than an hour. The nystagmus test indicated slightly that he might be under the influence. His face was flushed and his eyes were glassy, though he said they were that way from allergies. He blew a .03.

Dr. Stubenhaus finished his third drink in 65 minutes and said there was no question he felt the alcohol.

"I'm impressed with how much it takes to get to .08, I'm impressed with how much it takes to get to .05," Dr. Stubenhaus said.

Ms. Parsons went outside and smoked a cigarette. She said smoking increases the effects of alcohol on her. When she returned, she did another field sobriety test and had trouble with some of it.

After about two hours, Mr. Barenboim finished his fifth beer. Ms. Parsons had polished off about 25 ounces of wine, and Dr. Stubenhaus his fourth scotch and soda.

The nystagmus twitch had increased for both Dr. Stubenhaus and Mr. Barenboim, especially according to the police officers, who are accustomed to observing the test.

"I'm not going to be driving tonight. I could not," Ms. Parsons said. "If I were in a bar, and if I was at this point, I would stay and see how I felt in about an hour."

Mr. Barenboim said he wasn't effected by the alcohol. "not at all."

"I'm feeling it, yeah," Dr. Stubenhaus said. "So you need to lower this limit to about .05. That's incredible. I never have four drinks."

Yet when it came time to leave a short time later, Dr. Stubenhaus said he thought he was fine to drive. (The Townsmen or police drove participants home.)

After Ms. Parsons consumed about 30 ounces of wine in about two hours, she blew a .10.

"Abby. Let me show you the ladies' cell," Mr. Barenboim joked.

She still managed to recite the alphabet, and to count backward from 60 to 40.

Mr. Barenboim guessed he'd be a .05 and only blew a .03.

"I'm drinking beer from now on," Ms. Parsons said.

The alcohol

One drink, or beer, will bring the average person's blood alcohol level to .02, "roughly speaking," according to Officer Cronin.

In one hour, the average person also metabolizes about .02.

"So, in theory, you can have a drink an hour and it's a wash," Officer Cronin said.

If that average person has two drinks in an hour, and metabolizes the .02, the net blood alcohol level would be about .02. That would continue to build for each hour that level of drinking continued, and the subject would, in theory, reach .08 in four hours. That is about the level of consumption Mr. Barenboim held for two hours, prior to stopping drinking before the last test, so his .03 was just about right on, or a little bit low.

Chief Johnson said it takes up to two hours after the last drink is consumed before the alcohol peaks in the

Here's how the law changed

Gov. Weld signed the new OUI law on May 27. In addition to dropping the blood alcohol level at which a person is presumed intoxicated for legal purposes from .10 to .08, the new law:

- Increased penalties for first-time offenders from a maximum two-year sentence and $100-$1,000 fine to two and a half years and a $500-$5,000 fine;
- Increased penalties for second OUI offenses from a minimum sentence of 14 days and a fine of $300-$1,000, to 30 days and $600-$1,000;
- Allows police to immediately confiscate offender's license upon a breath test refusal or failure;
- Mandated jail time for missing alcohol-program appointments;
- Mandated that the defendant pay alcohol-program costs;
- Mandated a $100 fine to benefit head-injury treatment services;
- Reduced chances of "continued without a finding" dispositions;
- Increased penalties for multiple offenses, including a sentence of up to five years for third, fourth and fifth offenses;
- Provides that third, fourth and fifth offenses be classified as felony convictions;

- Created loss of license for life for fifth-time offenders;
- Allowed out-of-state offenses to be used to calculate repeat offenses;
- Increased the time period a court will look back to calculate repeat offenses, from six to 10 years;
- Created a separate blood alcohol content limit of .02 for drivers under age 21, (for suspension reasons only);
- Created new penalties for offenders refusing a breath test on more than one occasion.
- Increased license suspension for drivers under 21 who refuse a breath test for a first time, from 120 days to 180 days;
- Mandated drivers under 21 refusing of failing (.02 or more) the breath test complete an alcohol program, regardless of outcome of criminal case, or suffer a 180 day suspension;
- Provides mandatory license suspension of three months for person under 21 who purchases or attempting to purchase alcohol, or carries or transports alcohol.

blood stream, so it is also possible that the test was taken before the alcohol peaked for Mr. Barenboim.

OUIs decreasing

OUI arrests in Andover seem to be on the decrease. They numbered 91 in 1989, 91 in 1990, and 99 in 1991, but totaled only 67 in 1992, 64 in 1993 and 32 through Monday, Aug. 29, of this year.

Police oppose part of new law

One part of the new law police oppose has to do with pulling the license of an OUI operator on the spot. The law requires the police officer who pulls the license to issue a temporary license to the driver, good for 15 days starting 12 hours after the person is bailed out.

Sgt. MacKenzie said he doesn't like this part of the law because it puts the responsibility for issuing a license on the police officer, and he fears that person could go sit in a bar for the 12 hours, then get right back behind the wheel.

"That's one of the problems we don't like," Sgt. MacKenzie said.

It goes against previous decisions that found that a police officer has a "duty to act" to get someone off the road, Officer Cronin said.

Open container law

Massachusetts does not have an open container law, such as in New Hampshire, which restricts any open alcoholic containers in vehicles. In Massachusetts, open containers are allowed in the vehicle as long as the operator is not drinking, according to police.

Andover has an open container bylaw, but it pertains to beverages in parks and on public property.

Jim Barenboim is taking the field sobriety test. Police asked him to face straight ahead, shut his eyes, stick his chin up, and reach to the side with one hand, then touch his nose with one finger.

EDITORIALS

Don't drink and drive

Selectman Jim Barenboim, one of three volunteers who participated in a drinking test at the Andover police station last week, worried at the end of the evening that the story would send the wrong message. He was afraid someone his size, tall and 175 pounds, would believe he could drink as much as he did – five beers in two hours – and still be sober.

Volunteer Eric Stubenhaus concluded that the state's legal level of intoxication – .08 – is too high. In May the state made the legal level more strict, moving it from .10 to .08.

Two police officers and three Townsmen employees watched the three volunteers drink for two to two and a half hours. It was clear that volunteer Abby Parsons was intoxicated, and she agreed and finally registered legally intoxicated.

But the observers predicted that Dr. Stubenhaus would register a .08, too, and he never registered intoxicated, even when he said he was too drunk to drive. "I'm feeling it, yeah," he said. "So you need to lower this limit to about .05."

The story, then, is that the state's legally intoxicated level may be too high. But one message from the test is this: Police can detain people in some cases who are not legally intoxicated. And clearly a person can show obvious signs of intoxication before he or she is legally drunk.

The bigger story, the most important message is this: Don't drink and drive – at all. Intoxicated people are not good judges of their ability to drive safely. And drunk driving kills.

How to write

The Townsmen welcomes readers' letters.

Letters must be signed with a name and address and should be no longer than two typed pages, double spaced.

Please include a phone number, in case there are questions.

Letters are due Monday at 5 p.m.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters for length, clarity, taste and libel. Letters that are obvious parts of letter-writing campaigns will not all be published.

Abby Parsons, who is a bartender and waitress at Eighteen Elm Street restaurant, tries part of the field sobriety test at the Andover Police Station after one or two glasses of wine. She was one of three community volunteers who drank under police supervision Wednesday, Aug. 24, to learn police procedure on drunken driving and to learn the difference between .10 level (the old "presumed to be intoxicated" level) and the new level, .08. Police officer Robert Cronin instructs Ms. Parsons while volunteer Jim Barenboim, an Andover selectman, seated, looks on.

Why so many different shampoos?

By Perry Colmore

My friend Bandit asked me the other day, "Why is it that girls, well, and women, too, but especially teen-aged girls have to have so many different shampoos?"

"What are you talking about, Bandit?"

"Shampoo," he answered. "You know, the stuff you wash your hair with most days."

"Yeah. I know shampoo."

"Well, I just go into the pharmacy or the grocery store and buy..."

"I know. You buy the cheapest stuff you can find. Right?"

"Yes. That's what I do. What's the difference? It's all the same stuff."

"But," I reminded Bandit, "what if you don't like the smell of the raspberry stuff? Or what if you have gray hair and you need to use the purple junk to bleach out some of the yellow? And then there's shampoo for dry hair, shampoo for oily and shampoo for normal hair. You have to be careful."

"Good grief," said Bandit. "I think I'll just go dirty."

"While we're on the subject of boy-girl differences," continued Bandit, "why do girls throw baseballs or softballs the way they do? I mean, why can't they throw more like guys?"

"Girls throw like girls," I said, "because they're girls."

"But when a guy throws a baseball he can get it, no problem, to wherever he wants. A girl – er, excuse me – a woman can't even get it from second base to the pitcher. If she threw like a man..."

"I'm glad you've learned something, Bandit. Thanks for calling us women. Since you gave me that, I'll tell you the truth about women throwing balls. Most of us wish we could throw like a man. Some of us can. But most of us can't. That's just one thing you can do better than we can."

"While we're talking truth," Bandit said, "can I ask you something about clothes?"

"Well, that's a loaded question," I said. "OK, go ahead, what's up?"

"For women, clothes seem to be like shampoo."

"I think I get your gist," I said, "but keep going."

"I mean, how many shoes can a person wear at one time? Why do you have to have three black trousers?"

"We call them slacks."

"OK, slacks. Why three? And white clothes, too. In the summer, girls have at least four all-white outfits."

"Bandit. I'm impressed you've noticed."

"I do. But why so many clothes?"

"I don't know," I said. "Just because it's fun. Dressing up is sort of an art. Or it can be. It's fun to figure what to wear with what. If you feel like you look nice when you step out into the world, things go better for you. Now can I ask you something about clothes?"

"Shoot."

ANDOVER'S OUTSTANDING VOLUNTEERS

Seventh in a continuing series that is running on Andover people who are extraordinary volunteers.

Sally Factor Bergman

By June Weinberg

Sally Factor Bergman, one of the most recognized and respected names in Andover real estate, has also distinguished herself for her work for Aid for Cancer Research.

Aid for Cancer Research is a group of 24 women from the Greater Boston area who have raised millions of dollars to support research programs and medical grants in its 45 years of existence. Last year the group gave funding to the Boston University School of Medicine for a cancer research laboratory dedicated to basic research into the causes of cancers in women. It is a 100 percent volunteer organization that is not affiliated with any large organization.

The unique contribution of Aid for Cancer Research to the medical community is its ability to respond quickly to urgent and immediate needs for equipment, a laboratory or a fellowship, because we have almost no overhead and the ability to use our funds without undue restrictions. We have become a funding source for important but costly research initiatives, which have suffered because of the ever-shrinking research dollar.

One of the major strengths of Aid for Cancer Research is its volunteer advisory board.

Sally Factor Bergman

Ms. Bergman became active in Aid for Cancer Research in 1991, having lost her mother to cancer as well as a close friend. She also lost her first husband to a long terminal illness.

"I had a need to give some of my time to help in the prevention and care of cancer, as well as the alleviation of patient suffering," said Ms. Bergman. "I feel that Aid for Cancer Research will make a difference."

Ms. Bergman, a realtor with The Victor Company Inc. Realtors, has committed more than just her time to Aid for Cancer Research. In honor of her 20th year in real estate, Ms. Bergman has committed to donate a portion of every real estate commission she earns in 1994 to Aid for Cancer Research.

"We are really proud of Sally's dedication to such a worthy

'I had a need to give some of my time to help in the prevention and care of cancer.'

cause; therefore The Victor Company Inc. Realtors has pledged matching funds to this outstanding group," said Bill Maren, Victor Company president.

Ms. Bergman is also currently an overseer at Lawrence General Hospital and has been involved with the Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors, Hadassah and ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training.)

Ms. Bergman invites anyone who is interested in the memorial fund, all-occasion fund or the annual luncheon to contact her at work.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago, Aug. 31, 1894

The tower of St. Augustine's church is being repaired, which, it is understood, is preparatory to other repairs and improvements to be made about the church and parsonage.

J.W. Manning, the local bicycle racer, is entered for races at Taunton and Brockton to-day and to-morrow, and at Waltham on Monday.

The trolley pole on the 9:45 electric car from the Hill last Friday night broke in two, just this side of Morton Street. The conductor by standing on the top of the car and holding the trolley managed to make the proper connections so that the car was run down to the bridge.

The Fall term of Abbot Academy begins on Thursday, Sept. 13.

The attention of the ladies is called in an advertisement to-day of the opening of a Del sarte corset parlor at the store of Miss M. J. Howard.

50 Years Ago, Aug. 31, 1944

The playground season draws to a close this week with several events scheduled for Thursday night at the playgrounds. On Thursday evening, a Gold Medal will be awarded to the most versatile boy and most versatile girl, by Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman of the playground committee.

25 Years Ago, Sept. 4, 1969

A record enrollment of over 5,900 was expected as public schools resumed classes this morning. The expected enrollment, based on registrations to date, represents an increase of over 400 from opening day a year ago. To accommodate the increased student population and relieve overcrowding in some schools, there have been some transfers from the Central school to the South and Bancroft schools.

10 Years Ago, Sept. 6, 1984

Andover's 22 school administrators will go back to school this week without a new contract, something they have been negotiating for since spring. Both sides in the contract talks haven't met since school ended in June and a meeting hasn't yet been planned, said Will Hixon, an assistant principal at Andover High School who is on the administrators' negotiating team. The school administrators are represented by their union, the Teamsters Local 380. They are meeting with the Andover School Committee and legal representatives for the committee, explained Hixon.

Shampoo, clothes, throwing . . .

"How can men stand to wear the same stuff all the time?"

"We don't."

"Yes you do. You wear a tuxedo to formal affairs, a suit to work, jeans on the weekend. Don't you get sick of the same old stuff?"

"No. It makes dressing faster and easier. And besides, we have different ties. And anyway, men often don't have to buy the fancy stuff because women buy it for them."

"Do men like that?" I asked.

"Oh yes," he answered.

Continuing our conversation, I asked Bandit, "Why can't men do four things at once?"

"We can," he answered.

"I don't think so," I said. "I mean, a woman can answer the phone, tell another person something not related to the person on the phone without losing site of the phone person, and put on her shoes at the same time. Men tend to do one thing at a time, and even though they might do that well, some things never get done because they can only concentrate on one thing at a time."

"Women are all spread out over five tasks, none of which they do thoroughly," said Bandit, getting a little miffed.

"Take it easy, Bandit. Men and women have plenty to learn from each other."

"You're right," agreed Bandit. "Isn't it wonderful?"

"It sure is."

Scott Richards, 33, of 109 Main St., was arrested and charged with malicious destruction of property valued at more than $250. Mr. Richards was taken to Lawrence General Hospital for evaluation.

At 5:13 p.m., Steven M. Lafortune, 33, of Lowell, was arrested at a law office he shares with his wife, at 93 Main St., and charged with assault and battery on a family member. An emergency 209A restraining order was issued, barring him from the office.

At 10:27 p.m., Diana Scheer, 19, of 12 Copley Drive, was arrested on Osgood Street and charged with larceny over $250 (theft and use of credit cards).

INCIDENTS

Wednesday, Aug. 24 - At 2:06 a.m.,

Officer Lee Britton reported being in pursuit of two cars on North Main Street. One car went onto Route 133 toward North Andover and he followed the second onto Route 495 northbound. He broke off pursuit at Route 114 when the car went northbound in the south-bound lane of Route 495. Officer Britton reported his cruiser made contact with the car he was pursuing, damaging the front right fender and headlight.

At 12:51 p.m., numerous reports were made regarding a sick fox on Sutherland Street.

At 1:23 p.m., a sick squirrel was destroyed near 10 Union Street.

At 4:25 p.m., a sick fox was destroyed by police on Stirling Street, just around the corner from Sutherland Street.

At 8:46 p.m., a woman at the Coffee Connection on Main Street reported seeing a naked man in the alley across the street, next to BayBank. The man was last seen wearing red shorts and a red tank top shirt.

Thursday, Aug. 25 - At 12:31 p.m., a dog bite was reported on Stonehedge Road.

At 4:30 p.m., a BB gun was confiscated from youths at Camp Lorraine in Harold Parker State Forrest.

Friday, Aug. 26 - At 2:55 a.m., Officer Colin Radford reported being in pursuit of two cars on Haverhill Street in Shawsheen Square. He lost sight of the cars near High Street.

At 4:23 a.m., Officer Radford joined a state police pursuit of a Ford Mustang and a Black Ford Taurus on Beacon Street to Route 133 to Lowell, where Officer Radford broke off pursuit.

A short time later, Officer Lee Britton picked up pursuit of the Mustang on North Main Street at Route 495. He continued onto Haverhill Street and broke off the chase at Route 114.

At 3:37 p.m., a 209A restraining order was served on Haggetts Pond Road.

At 4:59 p.m., a 209A restraining order was served on Washington Park Drive.

At 5:41 p.m., Jay Talen, an employee of the water treatment plant, reported a canoe capsized on Haggetts Pond. Mr. Talen took a town boat out and brought two people to shore. John Chongris, 30, of 129 Haggetts Pond Road, was given a verbal warning for using a canoe on the town's water supply, a violation of the town bylaws.

At 6:09 p.m., a 209A restraining order was served on Argilla Road.

Saturday, Aug. 27 - At 6:35 p.m., a North Main Street resident reported his neighbor's dog was on the roof. The call was canceled when the neighbor arrived home.

Sunday, Aug. 28 - At 12:11 a.m., a bat was destroyed by police while they were attempting to assist in getting the animal out of a house on Cattle Crossing.

At 7:27 p.m., trespassing was reported after a North Main Street resident reported his home had been entered and his television was missing.

Monday, Aug. 29 - At 9:01 p.m., a 209A restraining order was served on River Road.

ACCIDENTS

Tuesday, Aug. 23 - At 3:36 p.m., a two-car accident was reported near 500 Lowell St., near the Tewksbury line.

Wednesday, Aug. 24 - At 4:36 p.m., a minor accident was reported near 19

Easter Seal Softball Games

These Vicor (of Andover) employees have been playing in the Easter Seal Softball games in Andover, to raise funds to provide services to adults and children with disabilities, for five years. They played and beat Alpha Industries of Woburn Saturday. The Vicor team raised the most money of the 53 teams that participated in Andover. They raised $1,268. In the photo, standing from left are Steve Ford, Glen Crabtree, Carla McCarthy and Dan McCarthy with a nephew on his shoulders. In the front, from left, are Julie Deshaies, Colleen McDermitt (back in dark glasses), Ted Liszewski, Donna Blute (dark glasses), Shawn Harty (in back) and Kim Bailey.

Most of these Easter Seal softball players are from the Andover Townsman, although several friends and family members joined them. The Townsman was scheduled to play the mayor's office in Lawrence, but that team was a no-show. So the Townsman split into two teams and asked people from the sidelines to join. This effort raised $390 for Easter Seals. The 53 participating teams in Andover last Saturday and Sunday raised a total of a little more than $20,000 for Easter Seals, said Jania Andreotti, regional director of Massachusetts Easter Seals. This is the 14th year of the games in Andover. Funds that were raised support, locally, swim programs at the YMCA for disabled persons, as well as the Stroke Support group that meets at the Andover Senior Center. In this photo are, back row from left, Jack Grady, Ralph Pass, Rita Stoessel, Annette Bernier, Mike Detollenaere, Mary Ann Apperti, Chuck Medler, Colleen Sheperd, Derek Harrington, Don Staruk and Rick Pass. Front row from left: Josh Grady, Karen Isabelle, Jessica Price, Perry Colmore, Judy Sirois, Lisa Adelsberger. And that's Neil Fater lying down. His team won. Ms. Price holds her team's runners-up trophy.

Local 11-year-old on National AAU All-Star baseball team

By Rick Harrison

Danny Hughes of Andover has been selected a first-team All-Star for his outstanding play at the recent National AAU 11-year-old Baseball Tournament held in West Des Moines, Iowa.

Danny was one of several Andover youngsters on the roster of the Milltown team, which represented the northeast portion of Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire in the week-long tourney.

"It was a nice surprise when we received the plaque, patch and gift certificate in the mail," said Milltown manager Dan Hughes, father of the All-Star. "We left for home after our final game and were not there when the (All-Star) announcement was made."

More than 500 youngsters participated in the 36-team tournament, which included entries from across the country and the island of Hawaii.

Only 20 players from that large group were selected as All-Stars, with the voting done by team managers and coaches.

Hughes was the only youngster east of Ohio and north of Tennessee chosen.

Danny hit .533 during the AAU tournament, going 16-for-30 with eight doubles and 10 RBI in Milltown's eight games.

He also immediately stamped himself as a player to watch by making a spectacular catch in the outfield during Milltown's first game.

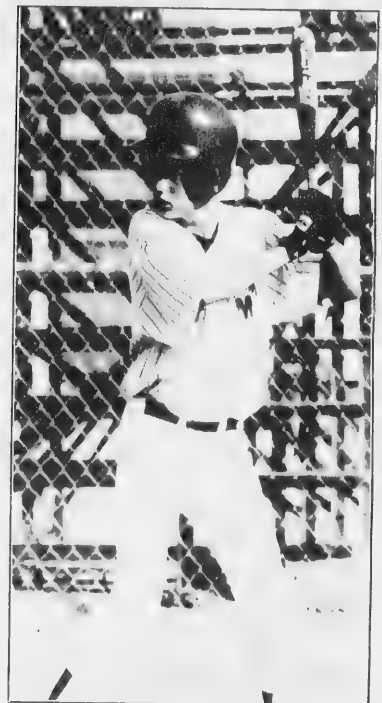

The local team was one of the big surprises of the tournament.

Unheralded coming in, and facing some teams that had warmed up by playing 50 or 60 games during the summer, Milltown placed second to Hawaii in pool play and qualified for the 12-team double-elimination medal round.

The Milltown 11's finished 5-3 overall to place eighth in the nation.

The San Diego Monarchs of California won the tournament, and rounding out the top six teams were the Westlake Senators of California, Crown Point Hub City Elite of Indiana, the Rumpke Rebels of Ohio, the Hawaii Warriors and the Osseo Orioles of Minnesota.

The National AAU award capped a very successful summer on the diamond for young Danny, also the starting center fielder for the Andover American Major Little League All-Stars who placed fourth in the 18-team District 14 Tournament.

Dan Hughes

The lefty hitter, one of few 11-year-olds to play in the tourney for 11- and 12-year-old players, batted fifth in most games for the Americans who went 4-2 with both losses by one run.

Eventual District 14 champ Lowell Gallery advanced all the way to the State final, where it lost a tough 3-1 decision to Middleboro, which won the Eastern Regional title and played in the Little League World Series last week at Williamsport, Pa.

A strong offensive contributor in District 14 games as well, Danny highlighted that tourney by scoring three runs in a 13-0 romp over Tewksbury American and delivering one hit and one RBI in a tough 3-2 loss to Chelmsford Lupien that knocked Andover American out.

Danny will be a sixth-grader at West Middle School this fall.

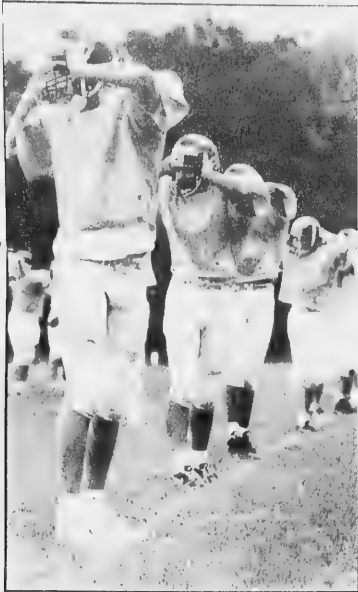

Equestrians competing in Jumper Classic

Liza Digaetano, Ken Edwards, Michael Fisher Sandler, Adela Wilkenson and several members of the Andover Riding Academy will compete in the fifth annual Ritz-Carlton Boston Jumper Classic on Sunday, Sept. 11, at Brackenside, 300 Bridge St. in Hamilton.

Future Olympic riders will compete on a specially designed course of challenging jumps for more than $20,000 in prize money.

New this year will be the Coca Cola Festival of Carriages, featuring the Cinderella pumpkin coach, a pair of Budweiser Clydesdales, a picnic basket competition and a Dixieland band.

The Peabody Essex Museum, founded in 1799, is this year's beneficiary of the event. A portion of the proceeds of each ticket will benefit the educational and family programs offered by the museum throughout the year.

Andover High School sophomore Tim Smith, center, takes control of the ball as Aaron Bancroft, right, attempts to get into the action. Soccer players have been playing and working out at the High School, preparing for a full schedule of games. Senior Eric Pisick is captain.

Why Slip And Slide Through Another Winter Of Discontent When You Can Drive Through It.

Right now, Audi dealers are making next winter a lot easier to handle.

With the lowest lease prices of the year on sedans and wagons that have something BMW and Mercedes don't: Quattro, the remarkable all-wheel-drive system with a "brain" that senses what's happening to the car. When the going gets rough, quattro instantly transfers power to the wheels with the most traction.

And that's not all. These cars are loaded with leather seating, 8-way power seats with lumbar adjustment, electronic climate control, child safety read door locks, anti-theft alarm, anti-lock brakes, power sunroof, dual air bag, supplemental restraint system, plus a fold-down third seat for children on the quattro wagon, and more. Much more.

So now you don't have to give up luxury for the harsher ride of a truck to drive through the driven snow.

Come see us and save now. Even better, think about all those people with a BMW or Mercedes you'll be passing on your way to work this winter.

Paul's Shoe Repair

Buying a good quality pair of shoes means great looks and a quality fit. It also means that the shoes should last for many years with proper maintenance. Features that make shoes repairable are built into the shoes. The problem seems to be finding someone with the skills to repair them properly. Paul's Shoe Repair specializes in restoring fine footwear. Paul uses only the best quality materials. Each and every pair is handcrafted to their original quality and appearance. Every job is a product of skilled craftsmanship and is backed by Paul's guarantee: your complete satisfaction, quality materials and workmanship and the job will be ready when it was promised - or it is free! Paul's Shoe Repair offers fast, professional and courteous service.

Paul believes in old fashioned quality service. After serving the town of Andover during six years of troubled economic times, he believes that the public does too.

In addition to shoes, Paul will repair just about anything that can break or wear out: luggage, briefcases, handbags, belts, wallets, jackets, skirts, golf bags, zippers, snaps, orthopedic shoes, custom leather goods and vinyl or nylon items. He also stretches shoes.

Fixing nicks and tears on women's heels is a specialty at Paul's Shoe Repair. Each pair of shoes is returned accompanied by a complimentary fresh shine.

Paul stocks a full line of shoe and leather care items, polishes and laces. Paul states that his advice is always free!

Paul's Shoe Repair is located at 7 Bartlet Street, Andover, directly across from the Park Street Village parking lot. Hours are Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Body Sense Owner/Director Sue Luby

Sue Luby's Bodysense

Sue Luby is an internationally known author, lecturer, television producer, hypnotherapist, yoga and fitness expert. The Bodysense System was developed to allow the individual to understand his/her own unique body alignment and to learn how to correct the unhealthy patterns which have caused damage and stress to the body. Once these weaknesses have been identified, they can be corrected in class, allowing immediate results and relief.

A series of mini workshops will be offered this fall. The topics being covered are: Finding your inner energy, Walking and running clinic, Absolute abs and firmer buns, The Feminine mind/body connection and Massage therapy. For more details call or send for a free brochure.

Bodysense classes will begin September 13th and run for twelve weeks. Classes may be taken once or twice a week. Private sessions of Bodysense or hypnotherapy are also available. Please call Sue Luby for a brochure, if you wish to discuss the program or have any questions. Arrangements can be made to observe a class.

As a personal trainer, Sue Luby will evaluate your home equipment and devise a program best suited for your needs. She also conducts stress reduction programs at companies during lunch times.

Sue Luby offers three phase hypnotherapy. This technique is successful for weight control, stress, study habits, smoking, snoring, relaxation, self esteem, confidence building, etc. The first consultation evaluates the client's goals. Hypnotherapy follows with positive suggestions for these personal goals. A personalized script that utilizes this material is taped so the client may take it home for reinforcement.

Sue Luby's Bodysense is located at 12 Essex Street, Suite 3, Andover. Telephone: (508) 475-4663.

GENERAL INFORMATION

DEADLINE: Noon Tuesday.
CANCELLATIONS: Must be received by Monday 5 p.m. No exceptions.
ERRORS: It is the advertiser's responsibility to check ads for corrections upon first insertion. The Andover Townsman will only be responsible for one incorrect ad insertion and then only to the extent that the error affects the response rate of the advertisement.

WRITING AN EFFECTIVE AD

1. Start your ad with the merchandise you are selling or service you are offering. This makes it easier for the reader to locate your advertisement.
2. Always include the price of the item you are selling. Many readers will not respond to an ad that has no price included.
3. Place yourself in the reader's position. Include specific descriptions and you will get a quicker response.

Top student outlines his study habits

enter Harvard University at the age of 16 this fall, armed with a foreign language exemption and four Advanced Placement examinations with the highest possible score.

But there is no magic involved in Mr. Palanisamy's success. "It's simple," he said of his accomplishments. "If you pay attention in class, if you do your homework and you study, you are going to get good grades."

In high school, he studied at a desk, turned off the radio and eliminated other distractions.

Therefore there is only one thing to say to those students who argue against these philosophies: It may be in your best interest to destroy this article before your parents read it, or, failing that, to hide your headphones and miniature basketball nets until their use becomes an imperative need.

Biochemistry at Harvard

Though Mr. Palanisamy said he is interested in studying biochemistry at Harvard during the next four years, science is not his only interest.

He started writing poetry recently and while at Andover High he was a member of the tennis and math teams four years, a member of the National Honor Society for two, and he contributed 220 hours of community service.

"Science without spirituality is hollow," he said, citing a personal motto. "I just believe there are too many atheistic scientists. They don't really step 'Science without spirituality is hollow. I just believe there are too many atheistic scientists.'

Akilesh Palanisamy

back and try to explore religion or other realms of the world."

Born in India, Mr. Palanisamy moved to Singapore with his father, Natarajan, his mother, Padmasini, and his older brother, Tharakesh, in 1980.

In Singapore, he was chosen to enter a new gifted-student education program and was first in his class when his family moved to Texas in 1988. He skipped sixth grade there and moved to Andover two years later.

Flexible study plans

He said he does not set aside specific blocks of time to study, but in high school he averaged approximately two study hours a day.

"Usually what I do is I try not to set aside a certain time to do my homework every day. I'll say something like, 'I'm going to get an hour of homework done before that club meeting tonight.' That gives you a lot more flexibility," he said.

But he is less flexible about some things.

"I definitely don't think the radio is something you do homework with. No matter how soft it's on it's going to be a distraction," he said. "Eating is a no-no for me. It goes so much quicker when you're not distracted by eating or TV or talking on the phone. Unless you're studying for several hours in a row for a major exam or something."

Mr. Palanisamy said his diet is fairly normal, although as a Hindu he does not eat beef. He downs three meals a day and a snack and tries to sleep a minimum of six or seven hours a night.

He credits his family for their support, saying, "They are always there."

His father is an engineer, his mother is pursuing her master's degree in business, and his brother is attending Boston College.

"I don't think because your parents are highly intelligent ... you should think it's going to come naturally to you because it's never like that," he said. "I worked hard to prepare for the tests so it's certainly a sense of accomplishment because that was pretty much my goal throughout the year - to get the fives on the AP tests."

As a study break, Mr. Palanisamy listens to U2 and classic rock acts such as Led Zeppelin and Eric Clapton.

"I always find that a relaxing phone conversation is good. A little TV," he said. "This summer I started jogging a little. A little, that is. Listening to music helps me relax. In school I pay close attention. That gives me a little bit more freedom outside."

"I don't think there was any secret to my success. I don't even think I was that successful. If you put in the time, you're going to reap the rewards."

[Editor's note: David Douglas, also a 1994 AHS graduate, and who also had four scores of five on AP tests, was profiled as a Merit Scholar in the April 28 edition of the Townsman. Mr. Douglas is going to the University of Virginia.]

Sgt. Barbara Connolly, left, and Officer Cecilia Blais set up traffic enforcement in front of West Middle School on Shawsheen Road one day last week, providing a friendly reminder that schools open Thursday, Sept. 8, and that motorists need to slow down. "We will be increasing the number of officers on the street the week before school starts and for the week after school is in session," said Lt. Phillip Froburg, operations commander at the Andover Police Department. "The point we're trying to get across is for people to be mindful of school children and to watch their speed and watch for children in crosswalks."

Patrols will be increased around all schools throughout town. Motorists should slow down at bus stops and watch for pedestrians, police said.

Officers in unmarked cars will also be watching to be sure motorists obey school-bus laws, such as not passing stopped buses. Lt. Froburg said some motorists think it's O.K. to pass a bus when there are two traffic lanes in one direction, such as on North Main Street.

"If it is not a divided highway, you have to stop for that school bus, even if there are two lanes," Lt. Froburg said.

The penalty for passing a school bus with its lights flashing is a $100 fine.

Back to school is good time to check children's growth patterns

Preparing pre-schoolers and school aged children for school can mean many responsibilities for parents — from registering to buying clothes and supplies. Back to school time is also an opportunity to check a child's growth, health and safety through some important steps that parents should consider.

These ideas can help make school time both more rewarding and safer for children:

- In addition to making sure your child is immunized against childhood diseases, also make sure your child is growing normally. Children, on average, grow ten inches in their first year, and two to two and a half inches each year through age ten. Growth outside this range may be a normal variation, but it might also indicate a growth disorder.

- Make sure your child has nutritious meals at school — just as you provide at home. Poor nutrition can also affect a child's growth in both height and weight.

- Children feel safest in familiar surroundings. You and your child should visit school together. While there, make sure that bathrooms, playground areas, gyms, blackboards and desks are all easily accessible to your child.

- Try to meet your child's school friends. Children learn many things from playmates. Invite them to your home to observe their play habits and interactions.

- Encourage your child to participate in sports and other extracurricular activities, and provide encouragement. Suggest that your child try many different activities to help identify those that will provide the greatest satisfaction.

The Human Growth Foundation helps individuals with growth-related disorders, their families, and health care professionals through education, research, and advocacy. If you think your child might have a growth disorder, see your doctor.

Do the 'write' thing — practice handwriting skills

Youngsters looking to get a head start on success should do the "write" thing, experts agree — practice their handwriting!

"Even in this computer-oriented age, many parents and educators continue to stress to youngsters the importance of excellent handwriting skills," says Robert Treece, President of Zaner-Bloser, publishers of classroom material for teaching handwriting and considered the world leader in handwriting education. Here are a few examples of why good handwriting is so important:

- The business world still relies heavily on handwritten material: messages, comments, note taking at meetings, filling out forms, etc. Neat handwriting can help you project a positive image. Poor handwriting costs business $200 million a year.

- Thirty-eight million illegibly addressed letters cost the U.S. postal service $4 million annually.

- Nearly 20 percent of hospital medicine orders are returned by pharmacists as illegible, while as much as 58 percent of information on hospital charts is illegible.

- Hundreds of thousands of tax returns are delayed every year because figures, notes and signatures are illegible.

The pen still proves a mighty tool for youngsters looking towards future business success.

Report writing can improve with computer printers

More and more students are learning not only the three R's but the three P's points about writing reports that can help them do better in school now and throughout their lives. These are:

1. Keep to the Point.

That is, make sure the report reflects the assignment and sticks to the topic without wandering off into tangents. It helps if the subject is not too ambitious. Unlike purely imaginary writing, report writing follows a fairly defined pattern: choosing a topic, assembling facts, taking notes and keeping records, organizing the information and then writing the report.

2. Make it "Pretty."

Include illustrations, maps, charts and graphs that help clarify the ideas put forth. A good computer and printer can generate many of these.

3. Print it properly.

After the report is written, illustrated, edited and annotated, get it all printed out so it's easy to read, easy to follow and a pleasure to look at. To help students with this last, one major printer company has dropped below the $300 threshold with one of its popular "home-printers." This new printer offers advanced features, speed and capabilities that printers several times the cost could not match just a few years ago.

"Young people are now computer proficient," says Terry Shorrick, a national marketing manager for computer printers. "What these machines are capable of now, compared to just a few years ago, is astounding. What we have coming in the future is going to be remarkable."

Perhaps your youngster can get some extra credit writing a report on that.

Picture book offers a merry way to multiply

Adding up to a lot of success is a picture story method of learning the times tables that was developed to aid retention.

The method, currently being used by some 2,000 teachers throughout the United States, was recently published as a book called Times Tables the Fun Way! A Picture Method of Learning the Multiplication Facts By Dave and Judy Rodriguez (Key Publishers, $19.95). The book teaches multiplication of the ones through the nines, with cartoons and stories

To teach six times six, for example, they tell a story of twin sixes who travel across a desert to visit cousins. The twin sixes get low on water, becoming thirsty sixes, a word play on the number 36. A reminder under the illustration reads: When 6 is with 6 they are very thirsty sixes (36)

Interestingly, a study involving 756 students, 18 schools and 36 teachers showed that post test scores were significantly higher when this method of learning the times tables was used. Many parents are getting the book for their children to help them learn the times tables for the first time or to brush up on the difficult facts.

The book is available at many bookstores or by calling 1-800-585-6059.

A picture method of learning the multiplication facts adds up to success in learning mathematical concepts and higher self-esteem.

Helping kids make responsible decisions

Peer pressure can affect anyone, at any age. But it is an especially powerful influence on young people, particularly if they are unsure of themselves. Peer pressure can be positive, such as the competition to get good grades. But when peer pressure encourages inappropriate behavior, such as smoking, drinking or skipping school, parents need to be concerned.

Parents can combat negative peer pressure by working with their children to help them make responsible decisions. Establishing open lines of communication with children early on is critical to helping them mature into self-assured, responsible adults.

How can we help children make responsible decisions?

If your child can talk with you, no matter how personal the subject, then you can help guide him or her in making good decisions. Building strong family relationships and open lines of communication will help your child handle peer pressure and make responsible decisions

Showing an interest in your children's activities and helping them set realistic goals are an important part of preparing them for adulthood. If your child announces a desire to try out for the track team, you can help by discussing the time and dedication needed for training and competition.

Another way to raise strong and independent children is to encourage problem solving at an early age. The more practice children have making decisions during the early years, the greater their decision-making skills will be later in life.

The Family course Consortium is a group of education and youth experts formed to promote the importance of communication in helping young people develop into responsible adults. Funded by a grant from The Tobacco Institute, the Consortium offers, free of charge, the booklet "Tobacco: Helping Youth Say No," a guide for parents and other adults. For a copy, write to the Consortium at: P.O. Box 41130, Washington, D.C. 20018

A recent survey of booklet readers found nearly all of the educators (98 percent) and parents surveyed (87 percent) agreed that the information was helpful. In fact, an overwhelming majority said they felt better equipped to talk to their children about peer pressure after having read the booklet.

Six Hints For Helping Kids Make Responsible Decisions*

1. Discuss the problem. What is it you need to do or decide?
2. Gather more information. What do you know from other experiences that would help?
3. List the alternatives. What are all the possible choices? Are there others you've forgotten?
4. Examine the consequences. What will be the results, good and bad, of each alternative?
5. Consider feelings and values. How do you feel about each alternative? Each consequence?

6. Choose the best possible course of action.

*Excerpted from "Tobacco: Helping Youth Say No."

Is your child gifted?

Many parents are aware that their child has special strengths and talents that often go untapped in school.

Effective programs exist around the country with wonderful teachers who challenge students to intellectual and creative heights. The goals 2000 initiative of the Clinton administration is designed to help the nation set high standards for all children.

Most children with outstanding talents, however, do not perform at high enough levels, according to a new U.S. Department of Education report called National Excellence: A Case For Developing America's Talent. Many talented youngsters are restrained by the lack of depth in the regular school program and by the limitations of many of the special services designed for them. Their regular classroom teachers make few accommodations for them, despite evidence that these students have mastered significant portions of the regular curriculum. The special opportunities that do exist for them seldom sufficiently supplement the regular school program and vary greatly from state to state and from school to school. In addition, the practice of identifying gifted and talented students using mainly test data and grades has limited access to special opportunities for many students who could benefit from them.

To improve education for the gifted and all of America's students, the report says schools must:

- Expand effective education programs and incorporate more advanced materials into the regular school program.
- Provide all students with opportunities to solve problems, analyze materials and learn from real-life experiences.
- Identify students who need individual or advanced opportunities and use test data only as appropriate.
- Serve students identified as having outstanding talent in many places—the regular classroom, a special class, the community, a university or museum, in front of a computer, or anywhere the opportunity meets the need.
- Create flexible schools that enable all students, including the most able, to be grouped and regrouped according to their needs and interests.

Copies of the report are available from New Orders, Superintendent of Documents, P.O. Box 371954, Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7950. The stock number is 065-000-00603-1, and the price is $3.

Nearsighted? Astigmatism?

*Let Our Experience
Help You Experience
A New World of VISION*

RADIAL KERATOTOMY (RK) is a procedure which may permanently correct your vision. RK is a predictable and proven medical procedure which can reduce, and in most cases eliminate refractive disorders. If you are nearsighted or have astigmatism and want to eliminate or reduce dependency on glasses or contact lenses, you could be a candidate for this new technique.

CATARACT/REFRACTIVE SURGERY is a combined procedure that allows you to have your cataract removed as well as your refractive error corrected. With this new technique, you can reduce your dependency on glasses by correcting your refractive problem, as well as enjoy the benefits of having your cataract removed. If you have cataracts and astigmatism, nearsightedness or farsightedness, this Cataract/Refractive procedure could be for you.

High school student eligible for college courses under Education Reform Act

Sen. O'Brien and Rep. Coon announce college courses for Andover High School seniors are now being offered.

State Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, and State Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, announced that qualified public high school juniors and seniors may be eligible to take courses at public colleges and universities for both high school and college credit under the dual enrollment program. As part of the Education Reform Act, the Executive Office of Education with the Higher Education Coordinating Council and Board of Education developed the dual enrollment program to allow qualified high school students to attend college courses free of charge.

Under the Education Reform Act, any eligible student enrolled in a public secondary school may enroll as a full-time or part-time student in a Massachusetts public institution of higher education to earn both secondary and college credits. The Secretary of Education, Board of Education and Higher Education Coordinating Council shall define eligibility requirements and administer the program based on agreement between local high schools and higher education institutions.

In Fiscal Year 1995, the Legislature allocated $500,000 in the Executive Office of Education budget to reimburse colleges and universities that participate in the dual enrollment program.

The dual enrollment program was designed to allow talented high school students to take advantage of college courses at no cost. The program is open to students in their junior or senior year in high school who have attained a grade-point average of 3.0 or higher. Students must be recommended by their high school principals, teachers or guidance counselors to take college-level courses. Students are also required to meet all admission requirements. SAT scores will be waived for students who have not yet taken the courses.

"This program represents a creative approach in using the Commonwealth's public colleges and universities as a resource to give talented young people a unique opportunity to experience classes at the college level for credit while still in high school," said Sen. O'Brien.

"This program provides a great opportunity for students to further pursue their academic interests," said Rep. Coon.

Students at Andover High School should contact the principal, guidance counselor and teachers to discuss the program and obtain more information.

Not mere facts, but a new way of thinking

What do you get when you put together a roaming van with a satellite dish, a talking camcorder and a couple of kids? Besides a lot of fun, you get a new interactive video curriculum designed to get children interested in science at an early age.

'galaxy' Classroom, an educational satellite network that is produced by the Los Angeles-based 'galaxy' Institute for Education, has recently unveiled the science program. It uses creative, hands-on experiments that encourage children to pose and solve problems and uses an interactive telecommunications satellite system that allows them to share their findings with others.

The objective of this child-centered approach, which is used by the galaxy Classroom — the nation's only network dedicated to elementary students — is not to teach more facts, but to enable children to construct meaning by instilling a new way of thinking about the world.

'galaxy' uses creative, hands-on experiments that encourage children to pose and solve problems and uses an interactive telecommunications satellite system that allows them to share their findings with others.

For example, 'galaxy's' science investigation might start by having students test fingerprints and chemical compounds to discover traces of a stolen bag of candy.

Eventually the students create mysteries and ask other children to solve them. Through the process of collecting evidence, students measure, calculate, chart data and form hypotheses. As part of this science curriculum, students watch "S.N.O.O.P.S.," a video program that incorporates the curriculum's activities.

In addition to the programming, the galaxy science curriculum comes with science kits, materials and magazines for students. Through the use of fax machines, phones and videos, students can communicate with their peers in other 'galaxy' Classrooms, work together on experiments and test hypotheses.

Right now, 40 demonstration schools in 21 states and Mexico are receiving the programming. This year, galaxy plans to expand its network on a subscription basis to 1,000 schools. galaxy's goal is to provide programming for 20,000 schools by the year 2000. galaxy Institute for Education is a non-profit initiative.

Through an innovative science curriculum children will discover how to explore the world.
